LABOR-RACKETEER ALLIANCE IS HIT

Battle On Rights Changes

WASHINGTON (UP)—A powerful struggle flared in the Senate between the Democratic and Republican leaders today over a proposed jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, who favors the amendment, sought to enlist strength by reporting to the Senate that the presidents of 12 railway labor unions have endorsed the jury trial provision.

Republican Leader William F. Knowland, defending the administration's position that the amendment would weaken the bill, replied that the AFL-CIO Executive Committee is on record against it.

These developments came as the Senate was preparing to turn from the civil rights bill—in the fourth week of debate—for a few hours to complete action on Defense and Agriculture Department appropriations. The White House today renewed a plea by President Eisenhower for fast action to enable moneyless agencies to meet their August payrolls.

Revised Version

Meanwhile, supporters of the jury trial amendment rallied behind a revised version which they hoped would win over enough doubtful senators to assure its approval.

The modification was designed to meet an argument that Negroes are widely discriminated against in choosing jurymen in some southern states.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), a sponsor of the amendment, and 10 other senators—eight Democrats and two Republicans—offered the modification in the closing hours of Wednesday's long Senate session which ended at 9:45 p.m. e.d.t.

The modification was accepted immediately by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), chief sponsor of the amendment, that made it part of his amendment without needing a separate vote.

The modification would strike from the present law a provision requiring an individual to be qualified under state law to serve on juries of state courts before he can be a federal juror.

All-white Juries

Opponents of the amendment have contended that this has resulted widely in all-white federal juries in southern states which require jurors to be qualified voters.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he hoped the Senate would interrupt the civil rights debate for an hour or two today so that Defense and Agriculture department money bills could be passed. Otherwise, thousands of government workers and members of the armed services are threatened eventually with the possibility of some payless pay days.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) has blocked earlier attempts for such a truce by withholding his consent until a time is set for a vote on the jury trial amendment. However, Johnson now planned to get the money bills before the Senate on a majority vote procedure rather than on unanimous consent which can be blocked by a single senator.

Road Sinking In Fallowfield

A secondary road in Fallowfield Twp., now blocked off because of a mine subsidence, will be repaired in the near future, according to state officials.

The road, which leads to the new Express Highway, was barricaded from Fox Stop to the Lenfant farm when mine cave-ins created a driving hazard.

The U. S. Postal Department has halted mail deliveries along the route until repairs are made.

The state Bureau of Mines promised to look into the situation after the township supervisors petitioned for help.

Perry Twp. Juvenile Committee Organized

A committee to discuss juvenile problems has been organized in Perry Twp.

Emil E. Burgess, Fayette County juvenile probation officer, said today the new group was formed by the Perry-Lower Tyrone Twp. School Board as a deterrent to crime and vandalism on the part of youngsters.

The School Board action was prompted by reports of burglaries at the Perry High School.

The services of the new committee are available to parents and children in the Perryopolis area.

They are welcome to visit the group and discuss their problems.

The committee meets twice each month on the second and fourth Thursday at the Perry-Lower Tyrone High School.

Burgess said the new organization feels many boys and their parents can be helped if they will just be willing to discuss their problems and accept advice from those willing to assist them.

The committee is made up of the following professional and lay persons:

James Essington, Perryopolis Methodist Church; the Rev. Robert Moneta, St. Nicholas Greek Rite Catholic Church; the Rev. William G. Morris, pastor of the Methodist Church at Star Junction; the Rev. James E. Ridgeway, pastor of the Methodist Church of Perryopolis; Thomas Karolick, grocer of Perryopolis, and the Rev. John Stofcik of St. John's Roman Catholic Church at Perryopolis R. D.

Acting in an advisory capacity to the committee are Hibbs and Mrs. Kuhns. The committee will be assisted in its work by Chief of Police Stewart Stickel and Officer Louis Martinak of the Perryopolis Police Dept.; and Chief of Police John Lesho and Officer Kenneth Eakins of Star Junction.

Burgess will meet with the group on a monthly basis to discuss problems of interest, and to offer any advice which might be needed in the handling of a particular boy.

'Burial Services' For Storm Victims

Two Uniontown youngsters held "burial services" for 52 birds yesterday, apparent victims of the hail and electrical storm Tuesday evening.

Dorothy Ann Salitrik, 9, and Jack Evancheck, 10, found the birds strewn over a yard near their home. Apparently the birds had nested in three nearby fruit trees.

Western Arms Bid Is Ready

LONDON (UP) — Western disarmament delegates meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles agreed today to start presenting their joint aerial inspection plan to the Soviet Union either Friday or next week.

Informed sources said U.S. disarmament expert Harold E. Stassen would submit it formally in the U.N. disarmament subcommittee. The next meeting is scheduled for Friday.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau flew to London today, but was delayed in traffic en route from the airport and did not make this morning's two - hour session.

Dulles was expected to fill him in on the details at lunch at Winfield House, residence of U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney. Both were scheduled to attend another Western session this afternoon.

Two More Weeks

U.S. delegation sources said Stassen's presentation of the new Western plan and his step-by-step explanation of it to Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin would require two weeks more of meetings here.

Informed sources said this morning's meeting was concerned with smoothing out various differences among the Western powers on the presentation of the plan.

Friday's meeting, already twice postponed, is expected to approve a report to the parent disarmament committee and request permission for continued meetings of the subcommittee. It was believed Zorin had agreed to this Wednesday at lunch with Dulles and other Western delegation chiefs.

London sources said the delegates were agreed on an American "open skies" inspection system but were reported to have encountered West German objections to a Soviet plan to install ground observers in the West.

Meeting Rescheduled

But a West German government spokesman in Bonn denied that west German objections to ground inspection were holding up the London disarmament talks.

The regular meeting of the five-nation arms subcommittee including Russia, scheduled for 4:30 p.m., was postponed again until the same time Friday. It was the fourth postponement since Dulles' arrival.

Informed sources said the delegates were faced both with West German objections to the Soviet inspection system and with French reluctance to go ahead without Germany in the search for a first step disarmament plan.

The Western allies already had agreed on an "open skies" arms

Two Belle Vernon Persons Hurt in Lynnwood Crash

Two Belle Vernon residents, a 66-year-old man and nine-year-old boy, were injured in a two-car accident in Lynnwood about 3.45 yesterday afternoon, state police reported today.

Taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital were William Hoyes, 66, of 217 First Ave., one of the drivers, and William Ferencz, 9, of 826 Park Ave., a passenger in the Hoyes car.

Hoyes suffered bruises about the forehead; chest and knees. The boy received a head injury.

According to police a car driven by Neville Van Bremen, 17, of 323 Main St., Belle Vernon, was backing onto Fayette Rd. when it collided with the Hoyes machine. Miss Van Bremen was uninjured, it was said.

Damage amounted to $750.

Trucks Collide Near Intersection

Two trucks collided near the intersection of Schoonmaker Ave. and Manown St. yesterday at 2 p.m., local police reported today.

Daniel Kraft, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, driver of one of the trucks, told police the other driver involved refused to identify himself.

Kraft obtained the license number of the truck and said it belongs to a Charleroi firm.

Kelley Criticizes Ike For School Aid Defeat

Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, of Greensburg, had some unpleasant things to say about President Eisenhower yesterday.

Angered by the defeat of the federal school aid bill which he helped to author, Kelley charged that President Eisenhower may go down in history as "another grand and outstanding general who was apparently too bored or indifferent to work at the job of being president."

Kelley sharply criticized the President for not fighting harder for the school aid bill, killed last week in the House by a five vote margin.

The Westmoreland County legislator said that President Eisenhower "threw in the sponge" before the battle started.

Compared to Hero

"As a footnote to his story, the scholars may one day compare an Eisenhower golf game at Gettysburg to Nero's recreation in fiddling while Rome burned," Kelley said.

The $1,500,000,000 federal appropriation for school building was defeated by a vote of 208 to 203. Voting for the measure — a compromise version of the original bill — were 126 Democrats and 77 Republicans.

Against federal aid for schools were 97 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

Democratic critics claimed the President could have swayed enough votes had he made a last minute plea in support of the measure.

The President had announced earlier that he favored passage of the compromise even though he did not agree fully with the new measure.

Republican party leaders said they plan to revive the bill again next year. However, Democratic spokesmen contend the measure is dead "for a long time."

Mrs. Roosevelt To Tour Russia

NEW YORK (UP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will fly to Russia Aug. 30 for a month's tour of the nation whose government radio called her "a sworn enemy of peace and democracy" only five years ago.

The 72-year-old former First Lady received her visa from the Russian Embassy in Washington this week and her plans "are still vague." But, as far as she knows, she will be free to travel wherever she wishes inside Russia "as a newspaper writer."

'Lost' Car Is Found; Driver Then Sought

The "lost" car of Harold Hough, of 119 Pennsylvania Blvd., Monessen, was located yesterday in McKeesport.

Hough, who had been visiting in McKeesport, parked his car on a side street and then attended to business in downtown.

When he was ready to return to Monessen he couldn't find the car.

He told McKeesport police he couldn't remember "where I parked it."

Unfamiliar with the community Hough told police he would "walk around this town until I find my car."

He wasn't successful, but the police were. The "lost" car was spotted by a police cruiser.

It wasn't that easy, however. After police found the vehicle, they couldn't locate Hough immediately. He was searching McKeesport streets.

Located later, he picked up his car and headed for Monessen — and parked the car in front of his house.

Topper in 'Vigorous' Drive for Judgeship

Attorney Willis E. Topper, of Southwest Greensburg, announced today that he plans a "vigorous campaign" to win a Westmoreland County common pleas judgeship in the November general election.

Topper, selected recently by the County Republican Committee as the third of three judge candidates, had this to say in his opening campaign statement:

"In the interest of best government and fair play, I feel that both major political parties are entitled to representation in the courts of Westmoreland County. At the present time all the judges of our county are members of the same party.

Topper said he believed "justice should be administered fairly and impartially, that is, justice according to law and irrespective of race, color, creed or political affiliation."

"Justice should be administered mercifully and without regard of political expediency," said Topper. "Judges should be nonpartisan in their decisions."

Topper attended Greensburg High School, then earned a bachelor's degree, with high honors from the University of Michigan. He did his law work at the University of Pennsylvania.

He has practiced law in the county since 1930. During the war he served as a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Senator Claims Union Leaders 'Have no Excuse'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said today union leaders interested in the welfare of workers have "no excuse" in associating with Johnny Dio, the racketeering friend of Vice President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union.

Kennedy said Dio's record is well known and he only entered the labor movement "to exploit it to his own use."

It was "most unfortunate," he added, that Dio "was permitted to play such a prominent part" in New York City labor affairs.

His statement came after Lester Washburn, former president of the AFL United Auto Workers, told the Senate Rackets Committee he learned Dio's record soon after Dio took over the first New York local of his union.

Claim Lepke Link

Washburn said he learned that Dio was a member of the "Lepke mob" in the garment district trucking racket in the 1930's. He is convinced, he said, that Dio financed the first UAW-AFL local with "mob money", rather than personal funds.

The committee also summoned Dio's bodyguard, 240-pound Theodore (Teddy Ray) Rij, for questioning on how Dio got started as a union leader.

Rij, 43, a friend and "business associate" of Dio in the garment industry, was indicted with Dio in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

The Riesel trial of Rij and Dio, whose real name is John Dioguardi, was indefinitely postponed because two convicts indicted in the same case suddenly refused to talk. The FBI charged Rij drove the getaway car for the man who hurled acid in the face of the labor columnist, blinding him for life.

Hoffa, Dio Linked

The committee swung into the second day of its complex New York area hearings to retrace in testimony the main charge Kennedy made Wednesday: That Teamster Vice President James R Hoffa, now unopposed candidate for president of the giant Teamsters Union, allied himself with Dio and his hoodlums to take over control of Teamsters in New York. Hoffa was recently acquitted of a charge of bribing his way into the files of the Senate committee.

The 31-year-old counsel and committee members said whoever controlled the Teamsters could clamp a stranglehold on the nation's greatest city, preventing so much as a truckload of food from reaching Manhattan. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Hoffa also aimed at an alliance with the racket-ridden International Longshoremen's Assn. so he could control both sea and highway shipping along the Atlantic

Cecil Man Is Fatally Injured In Violent Crash

Frank Daccorso Jr., of Cecil, was injured fatally early yesterday afternoon in a violent car-truck collision near Ginger Hill, five miles west of Monongahela.

Daccorso, a liquor salesman, was dead on arrival at Monongahela Memorial Hospital at 1:30 p. m.

Robert Devlin, 42, of 821 Newport Dr., Pittsburgh, driver of an ice cream service truck involved, miraculously crawled out of his vehicle with only a few face scratches after a clump of trees saved him from a 300-foot plunge down an embankment. His truck, demolished by the impact, fell about 50 feet before it was snagged by the trees.

State police at Belle Vernon said one wheel of Daccorso's car dropped from a secondary road, running between Routes 31 and 88, onto a low berm. In an attempt to get back onto the road, the salesman lost control and began a weaving course down the road.

Devlin, attempting to avoid the oncoming car, also began weaving. The truck finally crashed broadside into the car, almost shearing it in half.

Total property damage was estimated at $10,000 by police.

Daccorso was a bachelor.

Rostraver Twp. School Officials Puzzled by Bill

Astonished Rostraver Twp. school officials were trying to decide today whether they should pay a $760.50 water bill submitted by the Pricedale Water Co.

It seems the water company somehow forgot that the township vocational school has been a customer since 1951.

On the other hand, school officials figured the bill had been covered in payments to the Belle Vernon Water Co. which supplies the nearby senior high school.

"We have no meter at the vocational school," explained Rostraver Superintendent E. F. Carter, "so the bill is apparently estimated."

Carter told the Board of Education last night that "the bill seems high since we have only 50 students in the school and no shower facilities."

The Directors decided to look into the matter before approving payment.

Senate Is Urged to OK Money

White House Pleads for End To Logjam on Appropriations

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House pleaded with the Senate today for action to enable impoverished government agencies to meet their August payrolls.

The civil rights debate which has been going on for more than three weeks has put the Senate so far behind in its regular work that the Defense Department and several other agencies are scraping the bottom of the money barrel.

In a special statement, the White House said that as of today military disbursing offices throughout the world have no legal authority to pay servicemen being mustered out.

As for the effect on pay for men now in service, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said this question is being examined and it may be possible to shift certain funds.

The White House renewed President Eisenhower's plea of Wednesday for speedy Senate action to break up a logjam on appropriations bills that have been blocked by the fight over civil rights.

Another attempt was scheduled in the Senate today to complete action on regular appropriation bills which are ready for a final vote.

In cases where the regular money bills are not ready, Congress will have to adopt another resolution authorizing the agencies involved to keep spending money.

One such resolution was adopted July 1, the start of the new fiscal year. It expired last midnight. So far Senate leaders have been unable to get unanimous consent to lay aside the civil rights bill long enough to adopt a new resolution.

President Eisenhower addressed a special appeal to 1,200 employes to stay on the job at the Small Business Administration whose spending and loan authority ran out at midnight. The SBA can meet July payrolls. But it can make no future commitments unless Congress approves a pending bill extending the life of the agency.

The President, through Hagerty, expressed belief that the Senate would act quickly on the SBA extension, and act on a continuing resolution for departments and agencies whose annual appropriations have not been passed.

Donora Man Is Sought as Suspect In Car Theft

District police are attempting to locate a Donora man who, while reportedly driving a stolen car yesterday, struck two parked cars and then crashed into a house in Daisytown.

Bud Walker, 67, of Crescent Heights, Daisytown, was treated at Brownsville Hospital following the accident. He said he was a passenger in a car driven by Frank Edeins, of 141 Highland Ter., Donora.

State police said today that Edeins' operators license is under suspension and they have a dragnet out for him.

The stolen car, police said, belongs to Andrew J. Mauser, of 227 Waddell Ave., Donora. It was reported stolen Sunday.

At 11:20 last night, Gary Leone, of 572 McKean Ave., Donora, reported his car was stolen. Police are trying to Link this theft with the Daisytown incident.

Six Persons in One Family Are Crushed to Death

VINELAND, N.J. (UP)- Six persons, all of one family, were crushed to death Wednesday when a tractor-trailer rammed their automobile on Route 47 near here.

The dead, all residents of Vineland, were identified as Mrs. Melissa Scharff, 44, believed to be driving the car; her husband, Phil, 73; her parents, Roy Pancoast, 79, and Grace, 70; a sister, Mrs. Edith Hearon, 43; and her 18-month-old son, David.

The driver of the truck was identified as David L. Sickler, Woodstown, N.J. He was not injured.

The truck and the car were both going north on the Delsea Drive when the auto was struck while attempting to make a left turn into the site of a camp meeing, police said. Part of the tractor fell on top of the auto, crushing it and pinning the six occupants in the wreckage.

Sickler was charged with reckless driving and death by auto and was released after posting $5,000 bail.

Coast and St. Lawrence Seaway.

The committee wanted from Washburn and Rij the story of how the AFL United Auto Workers (UAW-AFL) granted its first charter in New York to Local 102 in 1950.

Kennedy said Wednesday — and ex - Communist Samuel Zakman, first president of the local, confirmed — that Dio financed the start of Local 102 which was soon granted another charter to make him an officer. Dio quickly became business manager, took over the local and kicked out Zakman, the committee was told.

Kennedy said Dio then became the UAW-AFL's director in New York, set up seven other locals and proceeded to staff them with his benchmen and organize such diverse "auto workers" as dog food makers, crucifix platers and toilet seat reconditioners.

inspection plan in the three days since Dulles arrived to try to prevent collapse of the U.N. five-power disarmament talks. American sources said this left Dulles "realistically optimistic."

The American "open skies" plan is the twin of the Soviet-suggested group inspection plan opposed by West Germany.

Pineau flew here from Paris for immediate talks with the other Western delegations. He was lunching with Dulles and then joining the three power talks in an afternoon session.

Today was the day set for the subcommittee to submit its report to the United Nations, but officials predicted the regular five-power session postponed until today would be moved back again. American sources said the report was a mere formality and predicted Russia's Valerian Zorin would raise no procedural objections to a delay in submitting it even though Aug. 1 was the deadline.

No More Alimony For One Man in Gray Flannel Suit

LANSING, Mich. (UP)—At least one man in the gray flannel suit doesn't have to pay any more alimony, according to a state Supreme Court ruling that read like a page from a drug store novel.

The court overruled a lower court's order that Micajah Linton Stone, an insurance salesman, must continue alimony payments despite a dwindling income.

Justice John Voelker, in a unique style, spoke of Stone as the "groping man in the soiled-three-year-old gray flannel suit."

"He is an obscure and almost classic example of the plight of the aging white collar worker, the displaced salesman who at last in desperation turns to selling insurance.

"In our view Micajah Stone scarcely needs an addition to the stone of alimony tied to his neck.

"Unless this court embraces the theology and ordains that alimony is henceforth to be regarded as a kind of permanent reward for feminine virtue or a perpetual punishment for masculine sin, then this case plainly calls for relief.

"The allowance of alimony is not so much an act of piety or judicial gallantry or benign expression of ponderous romanticism and archaic chivalry as one of cold economics based on two factors—the need and ability to pay."

Complete Filing Of Appeal for Turnpike Trial

HARRISBURG (UP)—Defense attorneys today completed filing of preliminary motions for a new trial for five men convicted of an attempted $19,500,000 swindle of Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission funds.

Dauphin County Court will probably hear the arguments in the appeal in October.

Carl B. Shelley, attorney for Paul J. McNeill, 45, West Reading, former commission finance director, said the preliminary motions merely stated alleged errors in evidence and contended the evidence did not support the verdict.

The others convicted were former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale; suspended Commissioner James F. Torrance, Export; Charles W. Stickler Jr., president of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, and Clayton A. Landsidle, Shillington, the firm's former vice president and general manager.

Veteran Trooper To Return to Uniontown Area

Sgt. H. M. Jaynes, a veteran state trooper, will return as officer in charge of the Uniontown substation on August 7.

He will succeed Sgt. William Munz, who will be transferred to Carnegie, effective the same day.

Sergeant Jaynes, who took over the command of the Uniontown barracks in August of 1946, was transferred to Greensburg on March 18 of this year.

After serving a month in Greensburg, he was re-assigned to regimental headquarters in Harrisburg for confidential investigative work.

Sergeant Jaynes has gained a reputation as a "racket-buster."

Both he and Sergeant Munz formerly commanded the nearby Belle Vernon barracks.

The only other area transfer of state troopers will send Sgt. Carl Gunnerson from Carnegie to Washington.

Ike's Wife at Park Dedication

The ceremony at the new Mamie Doud Eisenhower Park was scheduled this afternoon.

Woman Arrested in Embezzlement; Used Money on Horse Bets

CLEVELAND (UP) — Detectives arrested a 46-year-old woman bookkeeper here Wednesday night for allegedly embezzling between $80,000 and $100,000 from a law firm to bet on the horses.

Police said Mrs. Louis Madigan, who was employed by the law firm of M. B. and H. H. Johnson, cashed checks ranging from $200 to $350 on the average of three or four times a week and then gave the money to a bookie.

They said the checks cashed with her endorsement and that of another member of the firm, all were dated within the last six months.

Mrs. Madigan had worked for the law firm for 10 years.

Detectives said she refused to reveal the names of the bookies with whom she dealt.

"It's not their fault," she said. "They thought I was betting for other people and I don't want to get them in trouble."

Meanwhile, Attorney Robert W. Wheeler of the law firm said an audit will begin immediately.

Mrs. Madigan, who lives in a $75-a-month suite, is the wife of deputy sheriff Michael Madigan and a sister of city detective Charles Mullen.

Both of them said they first learned of the matter from newspaper accounts and were stunned.

Police said the shortages came to light when Mrs. Madigan prepared three different travel expense checks for signature by three different members of the firm.

Each one of them signed the checks but later that day happened to mention it to each other. Since all had been drawn for the same expenses, they became suspicious and questioned her. She readily admitted the fraud.

Belle Vernon Bank Sued for 'Forged' Check

A suit to recover $2,892 plus interest from the Belle Vernon office of the Western Pennsylvania National Bank has been filed in Washington County Court.

The suit, filed by the Crown Sales Co., 926 Meadow Ave., Charleroi, alleges that the bank cashed a "forged" check in that amount on Aug. 30, 1956.

According to the suit, the check was made out the day before by the Seaboard Consumer Discount Company's Monessen office of the Mellon Bank and Trust Co. It is stated that the check was issued in payment of a legitimate obligation.

The complaint further states that the check was paid by the Belle Vernon bank on this endorsement: "Crown Sales Co. By William Glick, part., Mon Valley Adjustment Bureau Box 35, Charleroi, Pa., by William Glick."

The suit contends that the endorsement is a forgery, unauthorized by the plaintiff.

Humphrey All Through with The Public Life

CLEVELAND (UP) — Former Treasury Secretary George Humphrey came back home Wednesday night and said he was "all through" as a figure in public life.

The former cabinet member and his wife arrived after a brief stopover at his horse farm in Lexington, Ky.

"I went to Washington for two years and stayed four and a half," Humphrey said. "I have come back to be a citizen and a resident of Cleveland again.

Humphrey is expected to become board chairman of the National Steel Corp. with headquarters in Pittsburgh. He said he will go there Friday on a business trip but declined to give any further details.

Humphrey said he was "feeling fine," although a little tired, and hoped to get some rest at his home in Kirtland within the next few weeks.

Trucker, State Policeman Team To Avert Tragedy

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—State trooper Reu Silbaugh, with a runaway truck bearing down behind him on a treacherous mountain downgrade, cleared the way at speeds of 80 miles per hour Wednesday night to avert a crash.

Glenn Switzer, Fairmont, Neb., driver of the rig loaded with 40,000 pounds of sugar, brought the runaway to a safe halt after navigating it down two and a half miles of mountain roads and through the town of Hopwood, Pa.

It began when Silbaugh, driving up the mountain, saw Switzer careening down with brakes smoking, obviously in trouble. The trooper made a quick 180-degree turn and raced ahead of the rig which itself was doing "70 or better."

With sirens blaring, Silbaugh cleared traffic on the mountain road and in Hopwood, with the truck close on his heels.

Spitzer sped right through town and finally stalled out on an upgrade about one mile on the other side.

State police said he got out of the truck, put a piece of wood under a wheel and then collapsed from shock.

Switzer was treated by Hopwood firemen. He was reported in good condition despite his ordeal.

WITH HEARTFELT THANKS —A team of seven heart experts in Chicago have operated on an exposed heart for 32 minutes and hope to extend the time to an hour. Living, healthy proof of their technique is Mrs. Loretta Korus (shown with an intern). She had a cavity the size of a silver dollar between the chambers of her heart. Four days later, after surgery, she is able to sit up and talk.

Two Youths Killed; Eight Others Injured

HANOVER, Pa. (UP) — Two Maryland youths were killed and eight other teenagers, including four girls, were injured Wednesday night when their overloaded automobile upset on a curve and crashed into a utility pole four miles south of here.

Albert E. Shaefer, 16, Westminster RD 4, died in Hanover General Hospital shortly after the accident at Pleasant Hill, and William R. White, 15, Greenmount RD 1, died at 2:30 a.m. today, both from fractured skulls.

The 1949 sedan, recently purchased by Shaefer, had seven of the youngsters in the back seat and three in the front when it rounded a curve. The weight shifted to one side and it upset against a pole which was sheared off at the ground. The car rolled over three times over a distance of 20 feet and then hit another pole before stopping.

Shaefer was pinned underneath the wreckage and a crew from the Pleasant Hill Fire Co. had to use jacks and crowbars to get him out.

The victims were taken by private automobile, service trucks and ambulance to the hospital, which had to call in off-duty physicians and nurses.

Patricia Zinn, 14, Hanover, who was in the front seat with Shaefer and White was discharged after treatment. Others discharged were Robert Simon, 18, Reisterstown, Md.; and Janet Bortner, 18, and Barbara Smith, 18, both of Hanover.

Detained for observation and X-rays were Phyllis Dell, 16, Hanover; Rita Lutter, 16, McSherrystown; Everett C. Young, 16, Reisterstown, Md., and Michael Whitcomb, 17, Owings Mills, Md.

Five experts from Miami, Chicago and Philadelphia won the master mixed team championships Wednesday.

Costs of Industry Rising

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UP)—With higher money rates said to be in prospect and inflation cutting into profits, Wall Street isn't quite as optimistic as it was a few days ago.

Profit-pinching operations were noted in the first half reports of many corporations. Now several industries are releasing information on the amount of wage and other costs being absorbed.

The steel industry raised wages six per cent on July 1 and advanced prices to add only 4 per cent to sales, according to its leaders.

Tire wages have risen six per cent and prices are being raised 3 per cent on tires and three to 6 per cent on other rubber products.

Aluminum Also Up

Aluminum costs, including wages, rose 8 per cent in the year ended June 30. The companies raised aluminum prices by slightly less than 4 per cent.

Oil companies pushed prices up small fractions when they raised wages but competition and big inventories forced them to retract the rise. In fact the subsequent reductions were double the original rise.

So it goes along the line—competition restraining price rises sufficient to compensate for higher costs.

And now comes the Guaranty Trust Company's monthly letter to say there is no buoyancy in business operations. The bank says the widespread expectation of an upturn in business this autumn is in some measure the product of hope rather than of tangible signs of rising activity.

No Decline Feared

Commenting on this same subject, International Statistical Bureau notes there is nothing dynamic on the upside, and no great fear of a general decline.

"This lack of excitement," says the bureau, "makes it tempting to take a mental vacation."

It goes on to say that mental vacations in such periods as the present usually are a costly mistake.

"If current operations demand less energy, there is more energy available to put into forward planning. There is plenty to do even though the economy is temporarily standing still."

As for money rates, Guaranty Trust Co. holds a rise in the prime lending rate, now the same as the rate on some government bonds, is merely a matter of timing and a change can be expected after the Treasury's financing is completed.

Picnic Winners Are Announced

The Monessen Recreation Department today released the names of winners of the special events held at the Community Picnic at Kennywood Park Tuesday. Prizes were awarded.

Claudia Chuprinko won the lollipop hunt and DeWinters Stanton was first with 197 pennies in the penny scramble.

Mr. and Mrs. James McShane were the oldest married couple present, and Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Angeline, the youngest. The William Horan family was largest with nine children. The Horans also had the most daughters, five.

Heavy Winds Smack Iowa; Plane Crashes

By UNITED PRESS

A squall line packing wind gusts of up to 50 m.p.h. pounded eastern Iowa Wednesday night, leaving a trail of property damage and causing at least one plane crash.

The storm dumped 1½ inches of rain at Dubuque in a 20-minute period and then swept along a line into Davenport and the Quad-Cities area along the Iowa-Illinois state line.

Robert Cadlwell, Moline, Ill., a student pilot, crashed at the Quad-Cities Airport when his plane was dashed to the ground by a gust of wind. Cadlwell escaped unhurt from the demolished private plane.

Elsewhere, isolated storms occurred Wednesday in the plains states, northern Illinois, Florida, Louisiana, South Carolina and Maine.

Rainfall was spotty in the 11-state eastern drought area, but showers earlier in the week helped alleviate the situation.

Weathermen in Boston said the drought in New England was virtually ended, but they weren't sure whether to credit nature or rainmaking machines.

In New Jersey, state Agricultural Secretary Phillip Alampi said he might try hiring a mechanized rainmaker to help alleviate the serious drought there.

Warm, humid weather prevailed over all sections of the nation except the northern Great Lakes and the Pacific Northwest.

Weathermen forecast little change in temperature for most of the country today, although somewhat less humid air was seen for the middle and north Atlantic Coast states.

'Shopping Mall' For Jeannette's Business Area

A proposal to turn Jeannette's downtown business district into a "shopping mall" has been advanced by the community's Chamber of Commerce.

The long range program envisages a center-street park area with shade trees, shrubbery and park benches, play area for children, public rest rooms, new lighting facilities and resurfaced pavement and sidewalks.

The downtown blocks would be restricted to all traffic, with the area designed entirely for shopping purposes. Parking would be in off-street lots.

An official of the Chamber described the program as "revolutionary but practical."

Under the Chamber plan, the businessmen themselves will finance much of the new venture. It is estimated that overall costs per block will be about $12,000.

Before seeking formal approval from Council, the Chamber has asked for comments from the public.

Local Student on Ohio Dean's List

Eugene Proch, 1302 Rostraver St., Monessen, was named to the dean's list at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, for the second semester, 1956-57, it was announced today.

Proch is a student in the College of Arts and Sciences. A student must earn a 3.3 scholastic average or better to make the dean's list.

Sons of Italy to Honor Dr. Pallone

Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of Monessen public schools, will be the honor guest when the Monessen Sons of Italy Lodge 1764 celebrates its 22nd anniversary at a banquet on Sept. 29, it was announced today by Frank Bosco, general chairman.

Bosco said the complete program will be announced later.

Atomic Space Craft Batteries Are Forecast

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government today forecast tiny atomic batteries powerful enough to run "equipment in guided missiles and space craft."

Missiles and "space craft" themselves may some day be driven by nuclear engines if research now going on bears fruit.

The prediction of space craft batteries was made in the Atomic Energy Commission's 22nd semi-annual report.

The report said "advances were made in all major programs"—weapons, power, ship propulsion, atoms-for-peace, research, and production of nuclear fuels and explosives. It also:

—Confirmed that the current Nevada tests are aimed at perfecting atomic weapons "with minimum fallout" — presumably smaller and thus radioactively "cleaner" atomic triggers for the big H-bomb tested in the Pacific.

—Reported that "a 10-year uranium supply is in sight." That means enough raw material for the weapons, power, and international atoms for peace program "as projected for the next 10 years." The United States still is the free world's biggest uranium producer and will be "for some time to come."

—Said new experiments indicate that certain treatments can reduce radiation damage to germ cells and thus diminish the threat posed by radioactivity to future generations.

—Claimed that industrial and other private atomic research hit "an all-time high" in the past six months.

Concerning weapons, the commission emphasized atomic arms "for defense against attack." It said it is stockpiling such weapons and also is developing others "employing new design principles which can be used more effectively for defensive purposes."

Other highlights of the report: In the six-month period, 11 atomic reactors went critical—that is, their fission reaction started up. Major parts were ordered or construction permits were issued for 22 others, including 11 military power reactors. New reactors planned totaled 35.

Research on harnessing H-bomb fusion reactions for peaceful power continued but it will be "many years" before a fusion power reactor can be undertaken.

State Buyer 'Resigns'

HARRISBURG (UP)—The head of the state's Bureau of Purchases has submitted his resignation in the wake of an investigation of his agency.

Kenneth W. Haldeman, Columbia, confirmed reports that he is stepping down from the $9,954 a year post in the Property and Supplies Department Aug. 9 but had a flat "no comment" when asked why he resigned.

The state Auditor General's Department said it was completing an investigation of the bureau involving the alleged purchasing of supplies "not in accordance with the law." The department declined to elaborate other than to say that an agency had been given permission to exceed purchasing limits without proper authority.

To File Report

Deputy Auditor General Alfred T. Novella said a full report of the investigation and its findings would be released shortly, probably this week. Novella would not comment on the resignation.

Haldeman has headed the bureau and its far-flung purchasing since July 21, 1955. He said his future plans were "undecided." The bureau buys about 50 million dollars worth of supplies for various state departments, hospitals, institutions and other agencies each year.

The resignation was the second in the Property and Supplies Department in recent weeks. John S. Rice, Gettysburg, quit as department secretary July 18. Rice, now touring Europe, indicated he wanted to retire from business and public life.

Open House at Camp Easter Seal on Sunday

An annual open house at Camp Easter Seal Sunday will give interested persons an opportunity to observe one of the major services available through the Westmoreland County Easter Seal Society.

The open house is held each year for directors of the Society, Easter Seal workers and groups and organizations whose contributions make possible the extensive program of work among the handicapped.

Twenty-two children from throughout Westmoreland County are among those taking advantage this year of the complete summer camping program for handicapped youngsters at Laurel Hill State Park near Somerset.

At Easter Seal visitors may observe a program under a trained staff, geared to the individual capabilities of handicapped children but embracing all the activities of a regular summer camp. These include team sports, crafts, hikes, swimming and cabin living.

Open house will get under way with a tour of the camp at 11 a. m. and will include a morning chapel service and the afternoon swim period. Visitors may have the noon meal with the campers and witness a program for the occasion.

Persons wishing to attend the open house are asked to make reservations by calling the Easter Seal Clinic at Greensburg 6313 so that accommodations may be arranged.

Nicholas Trembach, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, has been selected as one of the leading agents of the Colonial Life Insurance Co. and will be one of the speakers at the company's convention to be held in New York.

Trembach, married and the father of three children, services the company's Belle Vernon-Fayette City area. He works out of the district office in Charleroi.

Drought Will Hurt Soviet Farm Crops

WASHINGTON (UP)—Drought and other unfavorable weather conditions may make deep cuts in Russia's farm crops this year, experts said today.

If rains don't come soon to wide areas of the Soviet Union the farm situation could mean considerable trouble for Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev. He has been bragging about rising Soviet farm output and predicted big things in Soviet agriculture for this year.

Experts have seen trouble signs for Soviet agriculture cropping up in the Soviet press in recent weeks. The Russians have been complaining about poor planning to provide combines and other farm machinery for duty in grain fields.

U.S. experts on Soviet agricultural problems are watching and studying a variety of reports that Soviet crops also are being hurt by drought and heat waves.

There seems to be a shortage of rainfall in important farm areas of the northern Caucasus, southern Ukraine, Volga area and in Kazakhstan.

A poor year on Soviet collective farms could hurt Khrushchev politically. For years he has been overlord of Soviet agriculture. There were widespread reports that differences over agricultural policies was brought up prior to the recent Kremlin shakeup. An agriculture setback now would give Khrushchev's opponents powerful new arguments against him.

County Farmers Warned Against Seed Selection

Westmoreland County farmers were warned today to be careful in their selection of seeds.

County Farm Agent Joseph S. Thurston said that he has received reports of seed salesmen making farm to farm sales of small grain seed varieties which are not recommended by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Extension Service.

Thurston pointed out that the recommendations are based on extensive tests. New and experimental varieties of seeds are constantly being tested by the Penn State Agricultural Experiment Station.

Farm to farm salesmen often make exaggerated yield claims and commonly charge high prices, Thurston said.

"Poorly adapted seed varieties have been sold in considerable quantity in Pennsylvania during the past several years," he added.

Use of Radar Is Boosted by State Official

A state Highway Department official today urged the legalization of radar "for use in detecting speed violations."

O. D. Shipley, director of the Bureau of Highway Safety, said Pennsylvania's record of declining traffic fatalities "could have been better with the use of radar."

Shipley noted that large reductions in traffic fatalities resulted when the states of New Jersey and Washington okayed radar as an enforcement weapon.

A National Safety Council report showed a reduction of two per cent, or 400 lives, in the nation for the first six months of 1957 as compared with a similar period in 1956.

In Pennsylvania the reduction was 10 per cent or 84 lives during the first half of 1957.

Shipley said the improvement can probably be attributed to rigid enforcement and a suspension program in which restricted licenses are not issued.

He cautioned that state motorists should not be lulled into a sense of security because of the improved record.

Organizing Isn't The Whole Answer

THE PLIGHT of Rostraver Township dairy farmers, detailed in a series of articles in The Daily Independent last week, is in a pattern which is becoming more common in today's business world. The articles told of disappearing profit margins in dairy farming and the efforts being made to enlist smaller farmers in organizations seeking to "represent" them.

Undoubtedly farming, particularly dairying, is now a regulated industry. An organization which effects legislation bearing on the regulation has its function. On the other hand, we doubt any organization of farmers of itself is going to bring about a satisfactory answer to the problems which exist.

It seems too often the fashion anymore for our people to get themselves into big associations, which pit themselves against other big associations, both striving to get the "most" for their respective members. Actually these big associations create as many economic problems as they solve.

This may be a city-bred opinion, which farmers will think isn't worth a pig's squeal. It comes, however, from having observed some of the effects in the city of high-powered organization.

* * *

FROM time to time we see hundreds of our people out of work. Not because there isn't work, or their isn't a market for their products, or because they're mad at their employer, or because they're individually dissatisfied with what they earn. No, they're out of work because their particular organization has decreed against work. In that way the organization feels it can be more effective against another organization, and out of the struggle one of them will be able to get the "most".

This may be good organization doctrine, but it's a dickens of a way to run the country. The "most" soon gets swallowed up by someone else's "more", and we're off again. We're likely to be plagued by this until more of us realize that getting the "most" isn't solving our problems.

"Farmer In A Business Suit" is the title of a new book by John Davis and Kenneth Hinshaw. It deals with what the authors call "agri-business", a term describing the change that has taken place in farming in the last few years. Briefly, the change is what technology has done.

A farmer of the old homestead days wouldn't believe his eyes if he was to see a typical modern farm. Tractors and other mechanized equipment, new seeds and fertilizers, scientific methods of soil and herd improvement, conservation, new marketing methods — these have almost completely revolutionized farming from grandfather to grandson.

Such a revolution inevitably brings problems as well as opportunities. There is less and less room for the inefficient marginal farmer, or the farmer who refuses to adapt himself to modern conditions. But there is, we believe, room for the family farm that is run as a business by people who know their business.

"Little" Incidents

PROBABLY NEVER before in recorded history has the peace of the whole world been so subject to "little" incidents that involve major powers and thereby threaten to engulf us all in total war.

In the oil-rich, tension-ridden Middle East the slightest of incidents can provoke a major crisis. Today a handful of desert tribesmen in a sultanate most Americans never heard of are producing a new threat to the delicately-balanced peace of the whole great region.

The scene of the latest disturbance is the desert region along the eastern edge of the Arabian Peninsula ruled by the sultan of Muscat and Oman. The British have taken a protective interest in this area for many years. Originally this was because it lay athwart the sea route to India. Recently it has been because it lay close to the great oil fields along the Persian Gulf.

What is causing the British to move gingerly in the present ruckus is the fact that this is no simple desert uprising. The few hundred tribesmen are ostensibly led by the Imam, the exiled spiritual leader of Oman. But behind the Imam lies King Saud of Saudi Arabia, who has long claimed that part of the sultan's lands belongs to him.

King Saud has recently received U. S. arms and the British suspect that some of these arms may have found their way into the hands of the Imam's tribesmen. Nasser of Egypt also is reported to favor the Imam.

It is this array of forces with all its complex intertwinings which makes the situation so complex and difficult to deal with. The British do not want to get into a fight with King Saud, who has been acting as a restraining influence on Nasser and is backed by the U. S.

At the same time Britain cannot sit idly by while the sultan, with his potentially oil-rich lands, is overthrown. The stakes are great for all the West. Another tinder-box is ready for the lighting

Today and Tomorrow—

Ike Deeply Involved in Civil Rights

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The central issue in the Civil Rights debate now is whether the Federal government shall have more or shall have less power to secure and protect the constitutional rights of Negroes to vote. The Eisenhower administration, having put forward the Brownell Bill, is asking Congress to authorize the Department of Justice to ask for injunctions in the Federal Court, with no trial by jury in case the injunctions are disobeyed. The theory of the bill is that in those regions of the South where the Negroes are a large proportion of the citizens, white juries — the only juries there are — will not convict a white man who prevents a qualified Negro from voting. Therefore, if jury trials are required, the Federal power to protect Negro voting in the deep South will be nullified.

Mr. Lippmann

The President is deeply involved in the substance of the question. The question is not merely whether he really favors the bill his adminsistration has proposed, favors it practically, that is to say, in the sense that he will exert his influence with the Republicans in Congress to get it passed. He is more deeply involved than that. And he cannot fairly take refuge in the theory he often, though not always, invokes — namely, that it is the business of Congress alone to legislate. This bill does not add to or subtract from the existing law of the land on the right of citizens. It is primarily, indeed essentially, a grant of power to the President and his Attorney General, and therefore, Congress is entitled to a full and reasoned statement by the President as to how he proposes to use this new power. Congress is entitled to a statement of policy. Such a statement would constitute what is known in politics as "leadership."

Gradual Change

There is no use pretending that the passage of the bill as it now stands will be followed by a general and automatic action in all the Federal courts of the South which will secure the right to vote. What we must expect is that there will be a gradual enfranchisement of the Negroes in more and more election districts, but with a hard core of implacable resistance.

Where the resistance is implacable to Negro voters, there is almost certain to be implacable resistance, by one device or another, to Federal injunctions. This will mean that the President and his Attorney General will be faced not with the simple task of enforcing the law but with problems of policy as to where, when, and how, to use the power to enforce the law.

There is no evidence, so far as I know, that the President or Mr. Brownell have ever put their minds on all this, or that they have ever thought to discuss the leaders of the various factions in Congress. Yet leadership of this kind is greatly needed if we are to avoid, or at least to assuage, a struggle, infected with violence, over enforcement and nullification.

Though I am very much in favor of the bill as it now stands, it seems to me self-evident that whether the bill turns out to be a good one, a bad one, or just a deception, will depend on whether the President has a policy for administering the bill which he has persuaded the liberal South to accept. That is why the President cannot sit back, cannot deal with the issues at arm's length and with his finger-tips, and leave policy to be worked out later on by lawyers of the Department of Justice under the pressure of politicians.

Change Under Way

The problem of Civil Rights is the problem of guiding with wisdom and magnanimity a great change in the human and social order of many parts of the Union. The change is already well under way. It is gaining momentum. Federal laws will not make or break the change. Sen. Eastland cannot really stop the change and Sen. Douglas cannot very much hasten it. What the Federal government can do is, in some measure, to channel the change and to control its pace.

The great task of the Federal government — and particularly of the President and of the Senate — is among contending factions to be the mediator and the conciliator, seeking always to insure the greatest possible progress towards civil equality which can be combined with the greatest possible amount of consent. That ought to be a congenial task for President Eisenhower. It is one which suits his temperament and fits his conception of the presidency. But to perform such a task, it would be necessary to spend much time and energy on the problem, and to care about it seriously.

Untold Facts in Hoffa Acquittal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There are some interesting untold facts behind the acquittal of Jimmy Hoffa, no. 2 czar of the teamsters. Well-known fact was that Hoffa was represented by Edward Bennett Williams, one of the top defense attorneys of Washington. He did a brilliant job. But not well-known is that Williams had some interesting backstage help which even he may not have known about.

Mr. Pearson

Backstage Help No. 1 — came from Paul Dorfman, boss of the Waste Material Handlers Union in Chicago, whose racketeering has brought him into trouble with AFL-CIO president George Meany. Dorfman's wife and son profited to the tune of over $1,000,000 in commissions from labor welfare funds deposited by Hoffa and other friendly unions in an insurance company which mushroomed up overnight for the purpose of handling these funds.

Backstage Help No. 2 — came from Truman Gibson, former secretary of the Chicago Boxing Association who with Dorfman, helped get ex-heavyweight champ Joe Louis to come to Washington and put his arm around Hoffa. Gibson is a distinguished Negro attorney who served during World War II as race adviser to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, and later as adviser to President Truman on Negro problems regarding universal military training.

Backstage Help No. 3 — came from The Afro-American, prominent Negro newspaper in Baltimore, which carried not only a full-page ad praising Hoffa during the trial, but a column praising him to the skies as a friend of the Negro.

Eight members of the jury were Negroes.

Jury Locked Up

Copies of this flagrantly pro-Hoffa edition of The Afro-American were mysteriously delivered to the homes of Negro jurors, but when Judge Burnita Matthews got wind of it she locked up the jury for the duration of the trial. This was the longest period in the history of Washington's new courthouse that a jury has been confined. Cost to the taxpayers was $772 above normal court expenses.

After the jury was locked up it so happened that prominent Negroes visited the court and shook Hoffa's hand in full view of the Negro jury members.

As a final grandstand play, Hoffa's astute public relations adviser, Eddie Cheyfitz, suggested that a famous Negro hero be brought to the trial. At this point, Joe Louis's name came up. The job of persuading the champ was referred to Dorfman in Chicago.

It was reported at the time that Louis had come to Washington to discuss his tax problems with the Treasury. However, Louis acknowledged to this column that Paul Dorfman and Truman Gibson had approached him.

"Paul Dorfman got hold of me. He had Truman Gibson phone me here in Chicago," Louis said over the telephone from Chicago. "Gibson made all the arrangements."

The Brown Bomber also admitted that Hoffa had paid his hotel expenses. He stayed in the famous suite in the Woodner Hotel which overlooks Rock Creek Park and which Dave Beck had built for himself by knocking out the walls of two apartments.

At first the good-natured nonpolitical Louis told Gibson he didn't want to come to Washington, that he was in trouble enough over his income taxes. Gibson, however, told him he was already in as much trouble as he could get with Internal Revenue.

My Friend Jimmy

So the obliging ex-champ came to Washington, dutifully sat in the courtroom, shook hands with Hoffa, and told the press he was there on "personal business" but had dropped into see "my good friend Jimmy Hoffa." He took pains to sit in the courtroom both one afternoon and one morning.

Afterward, Negro members of the jury who voted to acquit Hoffa said that race did not influence their verdict.

The man who arranged for Louis's trip to Washington, Paul Dorfman, is an extremely close friend of Hoffa's.

Dorfman's wife Rose and his son Allen helped organize the Union Insurance Agency Inc., in which was deposited almost $20,000,000 of union funds between 1948-52. The insurance agency in turn placed its business with the Union Casualty Co. and the Union Public Service Co., which mushroomed up overnight largely thanks to Teamsters funds and Jimmy Hoffa.

"It was disclosed that approximately $102,000 in checks payable to Allen Dorfman were not deposited to the agency's bank accounts," Rep. Hoffman's investigating committee reported.

When the Congressman asked Dorfman if he had paid this or any part of it to Jimmy Hoffa, he refused to answer. Time after time, Dorfman pleaded the 5th Amendment.

Paul Dorfman is also a good friend of Johnny Dio, recently convicted labor racketeer in New York. Senate investigators have found that Dorfman operates separate boys and girls camps in Winosha, Wis., sometimes permits their use as a blind for underworld characters to meet. Senate investigators recently traced two long-distance calls from Harold Krieger to mobster Abner "Longie" Zwillman at Dorfman's Winosha camps.

It was just as Congressman Hoffman of Michigan and his investigating committee were getting to the bottom of Hoffa's operations around Detroit that high Eisenhower officials intervened, and stopped the hearings. Congressman Hoffman made various speeches on the floor of the House protesting against the interference. Committee counsel William F. McKenna stated: "We were silenced before we could make public certain important financial-legal aspects of the Teamsters' operations."

After the investigation was called off, Hoffa threw his political support in Michigan to the re-election of Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson. Feguson lost, later was appointed by Ike as Ambassador to the Philippines, then to the Court of Military Appeals.

Behind The News—

Yugoslavia Wins Big Victory Over Soviet

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Independent Communist Yugoslavia has won a big victory in economic negotiations with Soviet Russia.

But Poland is still in serious economic trouble and there is no immediate prospect that it can get either from Russia or the United States the aid it needs to safeguard its semi - independent status.

President Tito of Yugoslavia decided recently to test the Soviet government's expressed desire for better relations by asking it to make good on unfulfilled promises of 250 million dollars in credits.

A delegation of economic experts which he sent to Moscow has returned to Belgrade with a promise that the credits will be given.

The United States granted Poland credits totaling 95 million dollars in surplus farm products and mining machinery to strengthen its weak economy and help it to maintain the large measure of freedom it has won from Russian domination.

Wheat Shipment Arrives

The first shipment of 9,168 tons of wheat under this credit arrived at the Polish port of Gdynia on July 24.

But Poland had asked a total of 300 million dollars and there is no doubt that that much was almost desperately needed.

While the final stage of Polish-United States negotiations was approaching in Washington, Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka went to Moscow at the head of a trade delegation to seek help.

Gomulka asked that Russia pay Poland 75 million dollars it has owed for years for transporting goods and troops between Russia and East Germany. He also asked Russia to increase shipments of iron ore to keep Polish steel mills in fuller operation.

Nikita Loses Temper

Gomulka got nowhere. It is reported that Soviet Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev lost his temper during a conversation with Gomulka. He is said to have told Gomulka that Poland is "milking" Russia and that it had better go elsewhere for help. Khrushchev was referring to Poland's request for American aid.

Shortly afterward, Khrushchev sent Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to Warsaw to smooth over the bad feeling caused by his outburst. Mikoyan is understood to have told Gomulka that the Soviet government would "study" his request for the transit payments. But there has been no indication that the payments would be made.

The Lighter Side—

Fur Merchant Really Has Mind for Business

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —You've got to keep thinking to stay in business around here, and Milton Herman is thinking every minute—like, for instance, having baby sitters ready to whip out and sit for well-heeled ladies who want to come down and buy a mink coat.

Also, when he delivers a mink coat, he doesn't deliver it in any old cardboard box. He puts his minks on beautiful models. The customer opens her door and finds her new coat standing in front of her, draped on a smiling, nicely padded hanger.

Herman has been in fur manufacturing and retail for 22 years and in baby sitters for six years.

Sitters In Demand

"We find that many of our customers will say, 'Id like to come down Tuesday but I have nobody to leave the baby with.' So we send a baby sitter up. We keep two or three on call all the time, and we get four or five calls a week for them," he says.

Herman is a man for the gimmick. He introduced pink mink to the market, he says, and even made pink mink flowers for Pearl Bailey. Then he went into yellow mink. Then he turned out a kelly green mink capelet for Denise Darcel (for a St. Patrick's Day event, naturally.) His newest color is orchid mink.

Herman has made champagne mink car-seat covers for Anita Ekberg (very blond, to match her hair; a gift from her husband, cost $5,000), two mink golf balls for Monique Van Vooren (out of white mink, on request, after Monique found out that Herman had white mink golf club covers for himself), and a mink doormat as a Christmas gift for Liza Ferraday, the actress (dark brown ranch mink, with autumn - haze mink initials L.F.; she keeps it in front of the outside door.)

Selling The Spectacular

The legitimate clothing is outstanding enough. Listen to Herman:

"We've made every possible thing you can think of. I've just made, for Esther Williams, a full-length white mink cape with a hood, and lined with terry cloth—that's for when she comes out of a swimming pool. Why a hood? For warmth, I guess. She swims almost 24 hours a day, and the nights are chilly in California. It cost $7,500.

Herman's mink picture frames run from $100 to $250, depending on the color. They're a three-inch border, angled out.

Mink coats for dogs, tsk tsk, range from $100 to $500, depending on the pooch size. A lot of them are sold, honest.

The Woman's View—

Some Womanly Complaints

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—It is woman's privilege to complain as well as to change her mind. These days, several of us are complaining.

Paris started us off this week when some of its pace-setting designers raised hemlines nearly to the knees. Didn't hear any of the men around our office griping, but general comment among the women was: "Why don't they leave skirt lengths alone?"

There are other gripes and suggestions circulating, compiled herewith for free, for the fashion and cosmetics industries.

Why don't they, for instance, make transition cottons in lighter weight fabrics so we women can transit into fall in comfort? September in many parts of this country has its days in the 90's.

Buttons and Snaps

Why don't all clothing manufacturers sew snaps and buttons on to stay? Would save a lot of repair time and lost buttons. Come to think of it, why don't they provide extra buttons with all garments, just in case.

Why don't they:

Attach white collars and cuffs to dress or suit with snaps instead of stitching them on loosely. Removal for laundering would be easier.

Make routine alterations in women's clothing without charge, as they do for men.

Make purse - size dispensers for hair spray.

Curling Iron Asked

Revive the old-fashioned curling iron for a quick pick-up for a hair-do, especially on a rainy day.

Keep up-to-date magazines in beauty shops.

Stock bathing suits and other summer sportswear in the stores at least through July.

Need Flat Lipsticks

Eliminate the scent from powders, rouges and lipsticks, and let a girl's favorite perfume have a chance instead of doing battle with all the other odors.

Make lipsticks with a flattened tip. Most of us get nearly to the bottom of the tube before we get the lipstick shaped to our liking.

Tough Loss for Mary Katsuleris

Mary Katsuleris, Monessen's tennis pride and joy, who played one of the most sensational games ever seen at the Carnegie Tech courts in Greater Pittsburgh League tourney play last week, dropped a tough doubles match Tuesday as she and her partner Katie Hammond bowed to Nancy Meyer and Betty Weil in a second round match, 9-7, 6-8, 9-7. Mary is still in the running in the singles competition where she has shown her sensational form . . . Speaking of tennis, why aren't there more women and girls entered in the local City Recreation Tennis Tourney? More are needed, so see Lucille Musial.

Everybody is singing the praises of the St. Louis Cardinals' Von McDaniel, the teen-age hurling sensation but how about the other extreme — ageless Satchel Paige? Ol' Satch hurled the distance in winning the second game of a double-header for the Miami Minor League entry the other day. It was the sixth win against 10 losses for Paige, who must be in his 50s or better . . . Augie Donatelli, the NL ump from this area, who has many friends here, has this to say about young McDaniel, "How can anyone be so smart when he's so young?" Since neither he nor his older brother Lindy smoke, the McDaniels refuse to endorse cigarette ads. This isn't always the case you know, for some athletes never touch a "fag" until they pose for endorsement pictures.

New Soccer League Nationality Loop

That new soccer league being formed in the Pittsburgh area, the Greater Pittsburgh Soccer League, could be dubbed the United Nations League or the League of Nations. For instance, the New Castle entry will be composed of Hungarians who fled that country during the anti-Communist uprising. An Ambridge team will be made up of Hungarian and Italian immigrants. The Pittsburgh Nikes will be a team of Greek immigrants, who have been playing for the past two years and the East Liberty and Arnold teams, mostly Italian players. When the league roster is completed it is expected that seven teams will make up the league.

A typographical error in this column the other day provided Stan the Man Musial with a name which actually suits him better than his family name. He was referred to here as Stan "Musical" and with the rythym that guy has has both at bat and in the field "musical" is certainly the moniker for him . . . Another name oddity was a story in a district newspaper stating that Ted Williams was eligible to "preach". That naturally called for a second reading and closer scrutiny revealed this Ted Williams is from the Tri-State area and he goes to bat for God not the Red Sox . . . Billy Mazeroski, the Pirate second-sacker, is so popular in Brooklyn they have a fan club for the Buc mittman.

Patterson-Rademacher Bout Disgrace—Fraley

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Congress, the governor of the state of Washington and the National Boxing Assn. are on trial today in the case of amateur boxer Pete Rademacher.

Rademacher is the Olympic heavyweight champion. But Rademacher, who is scheduled to fight heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Seattle on Aug. 22, is a comparative novice who never has gone more than three rounds and never had a professional bout.

He is a potential corpse.

Just as the police stop people from destroying themselves with the evidence at hand should those with the power — Congress, Washington's governor or the NBA — step in and prevent this dangerous farce.

"I want to get the feel of one good pro fight," Rademacher said recently.

Should See Jackson

He could get it first hand today from a man named Tommy Jackson. Jackson had 35 pro fights before he faced Patterson's sledging fists Monday night. Against Patterson, a punishing puncher, he was a human shock absorber whose kidneys collapsed in painful protest.

"They tell me I can make $10,000 out of this fight," said Rademacher several weeks ago.

He might ask young Courchesne, a veteran of 50 professional bouts, when you lie in a hospital bed fighting for your life after a delicate brain operation.

Courchesne's experience didn't save him in a fight against Bobby Bell last week.

Rademacher is 29, a part-time amateur who didn't even make the 1952 Olympic team and whose victory in 1956 was a distinct upset. He can punch but he is an unprotected target for a man of Patterson's punishing skills.

11 Killed Last Year

They talk of the possibility that he could win with one "lucky" punch. They forget that Patterson, for six years, daily has been studying the grim art of destroying the man who stands in front of him.

Eleven men were killed in the ring last year.

Ten died of beatings the year before

In 1953 there were 22 men slain just as surely as if they had been battered with an iron pipe.

Putting Rademacher in against Patterson is a disgrace even to a bestial industry which long has masqueraded as a sport. If it goes through, it may be time to outlaw this bloody business once again.

Over a century, a billion cubic yards of earth, equalling 10 Suez canals, have been moved to protect and drain the Netherlands.

Ravens in Win Over PNA, 7-5

Six runs in the first two innings provided the Ravens with enough "cushion" to cop a 7-5 victory over the PNA entry in the City Softball League tilt here yesterday.

The Ravens scored first with two in the initial frame on a triple by Ed Macik, a single by Bob Mascetta, a walk, wild pitch and sacrifice fly. PNA, however, roared back for four runs in their half of the first inning on a walk, error and singles by Joe Gladys, Shorty Skowronski and George Lovich.

After the first round outburst by PNA, Randall Lee, Raven hurler, settled down and pitched effectively, allowing one run in the fourth and only five more hits the remainder of the game.

While Lee handcuffed the foe, the Ravens picked up four more markers in the second on singles by Joe Galla, Lee and Mascetta and added two more on a homer by Jim Cherocci with a runner on base. Another run was plated in the fourth on a double by Macik and a one-baser by Mascetta

Macik with a triple, double and single, Mascetta with three singles paced the Ravens to victory. les placed the Ravens to victory Joe Gladys and Skowronski had two singles for PNA while Bill Marple garnered the losers only extra-base blow, a double.

Tonight it's the Cro-Ams and Italian Hall while tomorrow night the important All-Star game between the locals All-Stars and the Tri-County League All-Stars is set for Ninth Street Park.

Blackhawks Wallop Prep Rockets, 18-5

An 18-5 shellacking of the Rockets increased the Blackhawks first place lead in the Prep League here to a half-game after being virtually tied with the Hilltops for the top slot.

Oddly enough, only two extra base blows were struck in the 14-hit attack by the 'Hawks which combined with eight Rocket errors made it easy for the winners. Mike Kunsa and Mervinsky clubbed doubles for the only extra base blows. Kunsa also had three singles, Mervinsky two other safe blows.

Dan Barton was the winning hurler with a three-hitter, 10 strikeouts and only four walks. Walter Jackson took the loss.

CIO, Vets Cop 1957 LL Division Titles

Division championships in the local Little League belonged to the CIO and VFW entries today following victories last night over the Elks and Ravens nines respectively, for the second time in succession to take the best-of-three series.

VFW claimed the American Division honor with a 9-1 pasting of the Ravens as Myron Cieply scattered six Raven singles.

Gerald Harter paced the Vets with a home run and two singles in four trips to the plate while Richard Steele showed two singles and a double in four trips Bill Kachmarik of the Ravens had two hits for the top loser effort. Sivie and Beeler also clubbed doubles.

The National Division crown was the CIO's despite being held to four hits by Tom Maatta and his efforts at the plate when he singled three times. Still the Unionmen won, 4-3.

Extra-base hit honors were evenly divided as Ed Kilpela and Frezzell of the Elks doubled as did DelRosso and Runfola of the CIO winners.

John Tobar was the winning hurler with an eight-hitter and nine strikeouts.

The two Division champs will meet in a best-of-three series Monday for the 1957 Little League crown. Game time will be 6 o'clock at the Stadium Annex.

Pirates Rally To Top Yankees

Back into first place went the Little League Minor Pirates by virtue of a last inning rally against the Yankees yesterday for a 9-8 victory.

The Bucs had taken a 4-1 lead in the first two innings and were leading by 7-2 going into the bottom of the fifth when the Yanks garnered six markers and an 8-7 margin which two Pirates runs in the sixth erased.

It was a tough loss for Richard Albert, Yankee hurler whose wildness in the sixth cost him a victory as he issued three straight walks which combined with a two-base error spelled defeat. Albert fanned 15 batters. The Pirates are now 10-5 to the Braves' 9-5.

Tonight the Braves battle the Yankees.

Training Too Tough?

BALTIMORE (UP) — Apparently professional football — or the training phase of it—isn't all that it's cracked up to be. Rookies Ted Schwanger and Terry Sweeney of Tennessee Wednesday quit the Baltimore Colts training camp, making it four rookie colts who have left the game in two days. Halfbacks Joe Guido and John Lee quit the squad on Tuesday.

'Hot' New Eagle Tops Fayette City

New Eagle's torrid nine, playing terrific ball of late, defeated first-place Fayette City as Jess Leach tossed a six-hitter at the leaders while his mates collected 11 hits off Tom Valla and Don Young of the Legionnaires, for a 5-3 win last night.

A four-run fourth in which New Eagle clubbed six singles in succession proved the winning margin despite doubles by Tom Parks and Mike Panich which produced two Fayette City runs in the sixth.

Leach fanned 10 batters to show signs of his old form and considerably strengthen his team's playoff bid.

Charleroi, another Mon Valley League entry showing improved late season form rode to a 2-1 victory last night on the strong left arm of Carl Witmyer to edge Perryopolis and climb within 2½ games of league-leading Fayette City.

Witmyer fanned six and walked three batters. Two double plays by Merchants infield greatly aided the southpaw ace. Shortstop Billy Majeski provided the winning marker when he doubled home Witmyer in the seventh after Carl had singled and advanced on a wild pitch.

CSL Announces 'Star' Additions

The following additions have been made to the City Softball League All-Star team for tomorrow night's game at Ninth Street Park with the Tri-County All-Stars.

It was decided at a meeting last night to have all the teams in the league represented in the upcoming All-Star game against the Tri-County League, this coming Friday at Ninth Street Park at 6 p. m.

The additions to the All-Star team are centerfielder — Willie Bronson of MPSA; pitchers — Harrison Spencer of MPSA; shortstop — Wine Teska, of PNA; second base — Dale Simpson of MPSA; right fielder — Joe Gladys of PNA.

The league decided to double-up the schedule for the rest of the season, with two games to be played every night. They will start this coming Monday. A schedule will be released for next week, and will be published in Saturday's edition of the newspaper. Starting time for first games will be 5:30, with second games starting immediately after first game is completed. Secretary Emil Crisi stated today.

Rotheram Paces Locals to Win; Same Foe Tonight

Fighting off a desperate West Newton bid for its first Mon Valley League victory of the season, the Monessen Ozarks had to show some terrific power in garnering a 15-7 win over the cellar-dwellers last night.

It appeared to be an easy evening for the Ozarks as they scored four runs in the first inning but the surprising West Newton nine came roaring back with six markers in the second frame which featured two West Newton homers one by hurler Marvin Sleith, the other by Jim DiClaudio. The latter's blow was a grand-slammer off Bill Mitnick, Ozark ace, who had relieved Myron Sepitko earlier.

One More Hit

Following the grand-slammer, however, Mitnick did not allow another safe blow. He was relieved by Jim Smith in order to rest Mitnick for future tilts, and the Ozarks tied it a 6-6 in the second inning.

After the second Monessen kept pecking away with three runs in the third, four in the fifth and two in the sixth for an easy win.

Tom Rotheram was the "big gun" for the Ozarks with a two run first inning triple and a fifth inning homer with the sacks loaded. Pappy Johnson also homered for the locals, his 10th of the season, in the second inning.

A quirk in the make-up schedule has the Ozarks hosting West Newton again tonight but tomorrow night comes a rugged tilt against Perry away.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Smoothness

If a smooth stroke is what you want, the smoothness must be there in the first 12 to 18 inches of the backswing, which is the part we call the takeaway.

To take the clubhead away from the ball smoothly, set up this smoothness of action in the preliminary movements made just before you start back, which is the part called the waggle.

Waggle the clubhead back and forth along the same line on which you mean to take the club back on the backswing. Make it smooth and purposeful; and as you make it, picture in your mind the kind of shot you mean to hit. Do it rhythmically and accustom the muscles to rhythmic action for the swing proper.

If you look on the waggle simply as a series of meaningless actions having no real part in the swing, you will be doing your golf swing a distinct disservice. You will be going into the takeaway jerkily — and you will, therefore, be swinging jerkily.

Bob Buhl Braves' Big Money Hurler

By UNITED PRESS

Bob Buhl, who might be pitching the Chicago White Sox toward a pennant except for a little mistake the Sox made, kept the Milwaukee Braves atop the wild National League flag scramble today and is now their big money pitcher.

Beetle-browed Buhl posted victory No. 13 for the Braves Wednesday night, 4-2, on an eight-hitter over the Pittsburgh Pirates to maintain their half-game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the fourth straight win for the hard-throwing right hander and left him second only to the Phillies' Jack Sanford for most victories in the National League.

All this is so much applesauce for the White Sox, who first signed him to a minor league contract in 1947. It developed the signing took place before his class graduated from high school, so the baseball commissioner made him a free agent and this time he signed with the Braves.

Cards Keep Pace

The Braves gave Buhl a 4-0 lead on homers by Red Schoendienst in the third and Johnny Logan in the fifth, plus two unearned runs in the sixth. He missed his fourth shutout of the year when the Pirates rallied for two runs in the ninth.

The Cardinals kept pace with a 5-1 victory over the Giants behind Herm Wehmeier and third-place Brooklyn moved within two games of the top by beating Chicago twice, 3-2, and 2-1. Fifth-place Cincinnati beat fourth-place Philadelphia, 6-5, in an 11-inning nighter.

In the AL pennant chase, the New York Yankees increased their league lead to 3½ games by beating their Kansas City "cousins" twice, 2-0 and 5-4. Chicago won a single from Washington, 6-5, while Detroit downed Boston, 5-3, and Cleveland blanked Baltimore, 4-0.

Wehmeier scattered seven hits, including Hank Sauer's 14th home run, to beat the Giants as Al Dark led his support with four hits. It was the Cards' fifth consecutive win.

The Dodgers won both their games in the ninth inning. Duke Snider's 25th and 26th homers gave them a 2-2 tie after eight frames of the opener and they won in the ninth with a run on three singles off Bob Rush. Trailing 1-0, they got two runs in the ninth of the nightcap with the help of Don Elston's wild pickoff attempt. Reliever Ed Roebuck was credited with both wins.

Larsen Pitches Two-Hitter

The Redlegs, trailing 5-2, scored three in the last of the ninth to tie, two on Ted Kluszewski's pinch homer, and beat the Phils with an 11th-inning run on Gus Bell's double and Joe Nuxhall's pinch single.

The Yankees made it 16 out of 17 against the A's as Bob Turley hurled a five-hitter in the opener and Don Larsen, with ninth-inning help, pitched a two-hitter in the nightcap. Mickey Mantle's 28th homer featured the first win and Bill Skowron singled home the run that broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning of the second.

Larry Doby had four hits for the White Sox and drove in what proved to be the winning run in the ninth inning. Roy Sievers hit his 27th homer in vain for the Senators, who suffered their fourth straight loss.

Ray Narleski, ex-bullpen ace, pitched a four-hitter for Cleveland to notch his third straight complete victory. The Orioles have now played 32 consecutive innings without scoring a run. Gene Woodling's homer and two singles and Bobby Avila's single, double, and triple led his support.

Jim Bunning of Detroit picked up his fifth straight win and 13th of the year with help from reliever Harry Byrd. Ted Lepcio of Boston and Dave Philley of Detroit homered.

New Empire Champ

PORTHCAWL, Wales (UP) — Frank Jones, the Scottish flyweight champion, won the vacant British and British Empire titles Wednesday night when he knocked out Len Reece of Wales in the 11th round of their scheduled 15-round bout. Both titles were vacated by Dai Dower of Wales.

Gavilan Shows Old Class Again, Tops Ortega

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, with his old cocksureness, demanded a title fight with Carmen Basilio today while even his victim in Wednesday night's 10-rounder, Gaspar Ortega, admitted he was soundly trounced.

"That Gavilan looked like he did when he was champion. He fought a really great fight," said Api Rodriguez, trainer of Mexican Ortega, who claims to speak no English. "Sure, he won and we were beaten good."

From Gavilan, who said he "felt just fine—I could go another 10 rounds right now," came a chorus of challenges to Basilio to fight the Keed or "hang up the gloves."

Basilio is scheduled to fight middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson late this month. As the champion, Gavilan decisioned Basilio in 1953 and claimed Wednesday night he "could do it again any time."

The decision over Ortega, before a capacity crowd at the Miami Beach Auditorium and a national television audience, was a triumphant end to a losing "jinx" which began after Gavilan lost his title in a much disputed fight with Johnny Saxton in 1954. Since then, the bolo-punching Cuban has won only six of 20 bouts.

Bell Faces Questioning On Pro Grid 'Power'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Commissioner Bert Bell faced questioning by House investigators today about the "drastic" powers he can wield over the National Football League.

Bell and Chicago Bears President George S. Halas were called as final witnesses in a House anti-trust subcommittee's hearings on pro football operations.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) said he wanted to question Bell about the "very, very drastic provisions" in the league by-laws which Celler said give Bell powers ranging from censorship of radio and television to authority to fix admission prices.

Celler praised Bell, who testified two days last week, as "instinctively a man of honesty" but added that Bell won't "be around here forever."

Cites The "Danger"

"The power he has in the hands of an arbitrary, selfish, grasping individual would be highly dangerous," Celler said.

The subcommittee is considering bills dealing with the anti-trust status of pro team sports. Baseball is exempt from anti-trust laws. Football isn't. Bell has asked for legislation to exempt from the laws certain features of football including the commissioner's power to govern the game.

The investigators heard criticism of the league Wednesday from Creighton E. Moller, lawyer for the league's Player Association which has tried in vain to gain recognition from owners.

Moller said the contract given an NFL player is a legal monstrosity which makes the commissioner's decision in disputes between players and owners "final, binding, conclusive, and without further appeal."

Ratterman Also Testifies

Moller said players ought to have some voice in the selection of the commissioner or else the system should be changed so the game is run by a board with one member representing players.

George W. Ratterman, a pro player for 10 years, told the subcommittee he had to pay a $1,200 fine to rejoin the NFL after he jumped from the New York Yankees to play Canadian football with the Montreal Alouettes.

Ratterman, who filed a suit in the dispute, said he told Bell a New Jersey judge had said the matter was a proper one for the courts to settle. Bell said he didn't care what the judge said and that Ratterman would have to settle it through Bell's office, which he finally did, Ratterman testified.

Sugar Ray Begins Drills

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson planned to go to Greenwood Lake, N.Y., today and begin training for his million-dollar defense of the middleweight crown against welterweight champion Carmen Basilio at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 23.

Basilio, already in training at Alexandria Bay, N.Y.—on the St. Lawrence River — interrupted his work to come to New York for Wednesday's formal signing of contracts for the bout, which was closed on June 28.

Thirty-year-old Basilio, favored at 13-10, will not be risking his 147-pound title when he tries to take the 160-pound championship from Robinson. Carmen expects to weigh about 151 pounds against Ray's probable 159.

Groth Returns To Tiger Fold

DETROIT (UP)—Johnny Groth, a sensation when first breaking into major league baseball in 1948 with the Detroit Tigers, rejoins the Bengals today at Boston in a move to boost the injury-riddled Detroit outfield.

Groth, 31, an outfielder, was purchased Wednesday from the Kansas City Athletics for an undisclosed price but apparently over the $10,000 waiver amount.

Giants Decide Against Moving Into Yankee Lair

NEW YORK (UP) — Another hope, perhaps the last, of keeping the New York Giants here disappeared today with the announcement they definitely will not move into the Yankee Stadium.

Giants owner Horace Stoneham and Yankees owner Dan Topping revealed that they met Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss "the possibility of the Giants moving into Yankee Stadium," which had been suggested as an alternative to the Giants leaving town.

But the owners agreed that they couldn't live together in "the house that Babe Ruth built."

In a joint statement, Stoneham and Topping said they agreed "there were so many obstacles in the way of operating two clubs successfully in one park that neither club could consider such a move."

The Giants declined to comment on a prediction made Wednesday by Mayor George Chrostopher of San Francisco that they probably will announce a decision to move to San Francisco in about two weeks.

Homers, Unearned Runs Beat Bucs

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Two Milwaukee homers and two unearned runs spelled defeat for the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday. The score was 4-2.

Successive doubles by Dick Groat and Bob Skinner and an error by Johnny Logan gave the Pirates two runs in the ninth to spoil Bob Buhl's bid for his fourth shutout of the season. Buhl now has won 13 victories, the last four in succession.

Buhl gained an early margin on home runs by Red Schoendienst in the third and Johnny Logan in the fifth.

The two Brave unearned runs came in the sixth on five hits and an error by Pirate catcher Harding Peterson.

The first two hits, singles, were rapped by Hank Aaron and Wes Covington, combined with Peterson's error, they accounted for the first run. Newcomber Bob Hazle's double scored Covington for the second.

Until the ninth, the only Pirate to reach second base was Roberto Clemente, who doubled in the second inning.

The game was enlivened in the fifth when Pirate manager Bobby Bragan was ejected for "holding" his nose at umpire Stan Landes after a decision at second base. A few minutes later, Bragan appeared on the field carrying an orange drink.

Bragan offered to share the drink with the umpires, but they refused and ordered him from the field. Landes later telephoned a report on Bragan's antics to League President Warren Giles. The brush with the umpires was Bragan's second in two days.

Hurricane Drops To No. 5 Rating

MILWAUKEE (UP) — The National Boxing Assn. dropped Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson to No. 5 in its ratings because in losing to champion Floyd Patterson "Jackson's ability was only to absorb punishment," Fred Saddy, NBA Championship Committee chairman, said today.

Eddie Machen of California was moved up to the No. 1 contender's spot in the heavyweight division, followed by Zora Folley of Arizona and Roy Harris of Texas.

Argentine heavyweight Alex Miteff, who vaulted from the nonrated ranks to No. 8 with a "workmanship" decision over Julio Mederos, was chosen the NBA boxer of the month for July, Saddy said.

Cause of most headaches is believed to be migraine or muscular tension with anxiety and emotional strain.

Edge Cuttings Provide Wildlife Necessities

The end of the Game Commission's fiscal year, May 31, 1957 should total of 71 chain saws were in use in its game habitat development program. These power saws are especially valuable during the winter months. At that season of the year more effective cuttings can be made from which benefits to wildlife will result.

During the last fiscal year nearly 600 acres of border edge cuttings were made, while 70 additional acres were re-cut. These cuttings are long and narrow, generally 25 or 30 feet wide, and are made on the outer edge of timbered areas adjacent to open land. They result in ideal food and cover conditions which are further enhanced the following spring when thousands of food-bearing shrubs and vines are produced naturally. This practice is also very beneficial to the crops, normally grain, in the adjoining fields. When sunlight is permitted to reach field edges formerly shaded better yields usually are the result.

Such edges are used by practically all species of wildlife because of the amounts and varieties of food present there, as well as ideal cover conditions which develop as protection from natural enemies.

Release cuttings during this 12 month period covered 875 acres. Such cuttings are made in order to reduce the competition of weed trees and shrubs so that good food species can get full sunlight and produce more fruit. Individual plants may be liberated, or several acres may be treated in this manner.

These cuttings, together with timber sales, are the best means of improving forest conditions for game in winter, the time when it is most needed. Deer especially benefit. They can frequently be seen browsing in the vicinity of such operations even while the work is in progress. Wild turkeys, too, benefit from the improved food conditions. Also such cut areas frequently are used by these birds for nesting cover. In short, these cuttings are advantageous to any and all species of game birds and animals.

Adopts Wild Orphans

During the last week in May, Stephen Mace, a York County Game Protector, set a few traps on the farm of F. L. Myers, near Wellsville. Animals were stealing the man's chickens. After two raccoons were caught the damage ceased. Mace removed the traps, thinking the incident closed. But no.

He said, "Last week Mr. Myers reported that one of his cats, which had disappeared for a while, returned home with a litter of kittens. In the litter were two baby raccoons. The farmer is of the opinion the raccoons are the young of one of the animals caught at his chicken house, and that his cat later became their foster mother."

Waterfowl—

Game Protector Earl Geesaman, York County, tells:

"The last check of the wood duck nesting boxes on the York Water Company Dam revealed that 19 boxes had been or are being used by wood ducks. In one of the new metal homes 25 eggs out of 31 hatched. Another wood duck is now incubating eggs in it.

"About two months ago a mallard hen with about 15 young ducklings appeared on the Hanover Water Company Dam for a short time. Then she disappeared with most of her young, but she left 4 behind. One of the tame geese on the dam adopted the abandoned mallard ducklings, and has done an excellent job as a foster parent — even though 'she' is a gander."

Township Fair Committeemen Hold Meeting

The Rostraver Twp. Fair Committee met Monday at the Junior High School to advance plans for the Fair to be held Aug. 27, 28 and 29. The various chairmen gave reports.

William Smith, general chairman, conducted the session and reports were given by Mary Bush, secretary, and Fred Herman, treasurer.

Smith said the outlook for a successful Fair is very promising and called for the cooperation of township residents to make it the "best ever."

Charles Quinn, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that his committee is planning to have a show each of the three nights.

Smith said the Fair will open Tuesday with the crowning of the "Fair Queen". The queen will be selected on the basis of the amount of money she has collected in the 10-cent donation jars which bear the individual's picture. The jars are placed at various places in the area.

Another meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 12, at which time by-laws will be read. A copy of the by-laws will be given out for approval at the Fair to interested persons.

Smith also announced that the cattle judging at the Fair will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of in the evening because of the lack of facilities to shelter cattle overnight.

Also present at the meeting were Bob Mayhew, Joe Paslerb, Mary Wortell, Mary Echart, Tanda Cinereski, Eva Altieri, Clifford Naylor, Nessie Haury, the Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway, Jim Patterson, John Kerestes and Joe Kuma.

'Cost-of-living' Increases Made by Rostraver Board

Janitors and janitresses in Rostraver Twp. Schools were granted a 10 per cent "cost-of-living" increase last night during a meeting of the Board of Education.

The boost increased the pay of top rated janitors to $286 per month during the school year and to $14.30 per day during the summer.

The janitors, who appeared in a body at the meeting, had requested a 15 per cent increase.

Later in the session, the School Directors reelected all janitorial employes for the upcoming term.

The Board considered all sorts of business during the meeting which lasted until past midnight. Bids on a bus were opened and ordered tabulated.

The bids were submitted by Murphy Ford, Monessen, $6,990 and $7,126; Ruben International, Donora, $7,395; Spesak Dodge Motors, Monongahela, $7,432; Graham GMC, Greensburg, $6,450 and $6,085; Donora Ford Motors, $6,638.50 and $6,984.

If purchased, the bus will be the eleventh in the School District fleet. Only ten buses will be used at any one time, with the eleventh serving as a "spare."

Other Board actions included:

HIRE TEACHERS: Four teachers were hired: Mrs. Lorraine Waite, of Belle Vernon, for Spanish and History in the High School at a salary of $3,700; Mrs. Wade Bender, Belle Vernon, English at the Junior High, $3,700; Mrs. David Shawl, elementary, salary to be determined later; and Mrs. Anna Haas, Fellsburg, $3,200.

TRANSFER WEBSTER STUDENTS: Fifth grade students at Webster will be transferred to LaGrange for the coming school term while sixth grade students will go to the High School building, leaving only four grades at Webster. About 15 sixth grade students from LaGrange will also be sent to the High School building to complete the grade.

SPECIAL EDUCATION: The School Board approved the first special education class for retarded children in the district's history. The class will be held at Webster School. About 15 students, including some from Bellmarette and West Newton, will comprise the class which will be taught by Mrs. Haas.

REHIRE COOKS: Cooks at all of the district's cafeterias were rehired. The Board quickly acted on the cooks at all schools with the exception of Lebanon. Two directors, Sam Weightman and Robert Streets, said they felt too many "married women" were employed at Lebanon. They suggested the hiring of "needy widows" instead. After a long hassle, the Board reelected all cooks unanimously with Weightman and Streets abstaining. Mrs. Ruth Rowe was hired as a cook at LaGrange, filling a vacancy.

PURCHASE INSURANCE: The Board authorized the purchase of $50,000 in additional insurance coverage; $30,000 to go to the Monessen Realty and $20,000 to William Overand of Rostraver Township. At the same time, the Board okayed renewal of insurance amounting to $286,000.

APPROVE BIDS: The Board okayed a bid of $840 from the Sisco Lighting Co., West Field, N. J. for the installation of lights in three classrooms at the High School. The Directors also approved the purchase of five Royal typewriters from Reetz Sales, McKeesport, at a cost of $850.

TEACHER APPLICATIONS: signation of Leon Trembach was accepted.

APPROVE BASKETBALL CLINIC: The Board authorized basketball coach George Everett to attend a clinic Aug. 5, 6, 7 at Adelphia College, N. Y., with expenses not to exceed $100.

SOCIAL SECURITY VOTE: The Board approved a secret ballot on August 26 and 27 to determine intergration of Social Security with the retirement.

TEACHER APPLICATIONS: Teacher applications were received and filed from Iva Womer, Fred Bonvenuto and James DiFlorio.

LIGHTNING ROD: The Board agreed to advertise for bids on a lightning rod to be erected on the new Junior High Buidling.

Directors present were Henry Bush, John Deter, Peter Backstrom, Thomas Patterson, Streets and Weightman, as well as Superintendent E. F. Carter, Supervising Principal Thomas Gilmer and Secretary Marian Driscoll.

Food Registration

Registration for surplus food will be held in Rostraver Twp. Monday for those who did not register during July. It will be as follows: Pricedale, 9:30 to 10 a.m.; Webster, 12:30 to 1 p.m.; and Fellsburg, 1 to 3 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Echart and son, Kevin, and Mrs. Hazel Hille, of Johnson Ave., left yesterday for a vacation in Trenton, N. J., with Mrs. Carlile Lewis and daughter, Mrs. Daub. Mrs. Lewis is a sister of Mrs. Hille and an aunt of Mrs. Echart.

Thieves Headed Off

CHICAGO (UP) — Two young men who failed to get their heads together today faced charges of robbing a suburban finance company of $300. Working on a slim clue, that one of the gunmen had a "duck tail haircut," police quickly spotted Douglas Fletcher, 18. Fletcher's companion, police said, is a barber.

Hungarian Group Weekly Card Party is Held

The weekly card party of the Hungarian Ladies Auxiliary was held Monday with Betty Domonkas and Lena Hollander winners in 500.

Virginia Layton was tops in euchre, while Dolores Nescot won the door prize and Ann Thot a special prize.

Lunch was served by Helen Hughes, chairman, assisted by Ann Guth and Margie Beregi.

The next party will be held Monday beginning at 8 p.m. at the Hungarian Hall in Pricedale. The auxiliary's picnic will be held next Thursday in shelter 2 at Monessen City Park beginning at 6 p.m. Mothers are invited to bring children.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quinn, of Grand Blvd., left today for a 10-day vacation with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Sarber, of Waco, Tex., where Sarber is stationed with the Army.

The annual Sunday School picnic of Webster Methodist Church will be held at Monessen City Park next Thursday.

Sex Overemphasis Under Criticism

SOMERSET, Pa. (UP) — Overemphasis of sex in motion pictures, television and magazines has created a "national nightmare," according to Arthur J. Paxter, youth director of the Columbia Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists.

"America's moral crisis is shocking," Paxter, of Washington, told the 54th annual Western Pennsylvania Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists Wednesday. "The havoc created by the advocates of sex freedom in the last decade has produced promiscuity, heartbreak and misery."

Another Delay in Nuclear Testing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Detonation of a "below nominal" nuclear device from a 500-foot tower has been delayed another 24 hours because of weather conditions.

The Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday for the third time rescheduled the shot—11th in the summer test series—for 4:45 a.m. p.d.t. Friday. Scientists said predicted winds today would have carried fallout over the populated areas of Pioche and Alamo, Nev.

Navy Man with Air Force Wings

A former district man may be the only naval officer who has the unusual privilege of wearing Army Air Corps wings.

He is Lt. Joseph Cheshure, 33, assistant logistics planning officer for the Pacific Fleet Air Force.

Lieutenant Cheshure, a Charleroi native, won his pilot's wings before there was a U. S. Air Force. His wings date from 1942, some time after he entered the Army as a private and prospective aviation cadet.

During World War II, he flew 22 missions as a bomber pilot. Lieutenant Cheshure won the Air Medal with three clusters. He also wears three battle stars under his Army wings and Navy shoulder board.

Following the war, Lieutenant Cheshure resumed his studies at Washington-Jefferson College where he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration.

After his marriage to the former Louise Binley, of Pricedale, Lieutenant Cheshure unsuccessfully sought a regular Air Force Commission. He turned to the Navy and was offered a regular commission, as an ensign.

He accepted and was sent to the Supply Corps School in Bayone, N. J. From there, the Navy sent him to the University of Washington for his master's in business administration.

Lieutenant Cheshure is permitted to wear his wings because of his liaison work with the other services.

He and his wife and two daughters live at 6338 Burgundy St. in San Diego. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Sherman Felgar, is a resident of Pricedale.

$50,000 Fire in Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—A general alarm fire in the once-famous Hippodrome Theater on Million Dollar Pier Wednesday routed about 2,000 persons and caused damages estimated at $50,000.

None of the persons on the pier was injured as they rushed to the exits and down ramps to the beach. The Coast Guard dispatched a crash boat, helicopter, and a sea plane to assist any persons who might have become trapped at the ocean end of the 1,900 foot-long pier. The precautionary measures were not needed.

An estimated 250,000 persons stood on the boardwalk to watch as firemen fought the flames. The blaze started in a transformer room atop the pier in the old theater, which has not been used for several years except for storage. The transformers supplied power to the pier's huge neon signs.

Had a Fine Time

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Clark Leffler's bachelor party was a howling success, but his five companions each had $10 hangovers. A judge imposed the fines on the five party-goers after they raised so much whoopee in a downtown bar that the band refused to play.

Air Force Marks 50 Years as Military Arm

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States Air Force flew high, wide and handsome today in marking the end of its first half century as a military arm.

There were many to claim that the youngest of America's defense forces had become its mightiest.

Its men were entrenched in the nation's top military positions. Its money was almost half of the total spent on national defense. Its machines were poking farther and farther into the frontiers of space.

Its wings were a protective cover for the free world and a warning to the Communists not to commit aggression.

Air Force regulars and veterans assembled this morning in Arlington National Cemetery amphitheatre to hear their service eulogized by Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, as a symbol of "strength and righteousness in the eyes of liberty loving people everywhere."

The golden anniversary memorial service honored the airmen who died in the three wars since the Air Force was born — 302 in World War I, 52,173 in World War II and 1,200 in Korea.

"They were the best of fighters," White said. "But they were not warlike. We honor them in the name of peace."

The 3,000 delegates to the annual Air Force Assn. convention will be lifting glasses tonight to the memory of the Billy Mitchells, Hap Arnolds and other air power prophets who showed the air service the high road to success.

Three Air Force memorial dances here are being billed as the biggest celebrations in the capital since the inaugural balls last January.

Dramatic evidence of the Air Force's aerial conquest was made public in connection with the anniversary. The service disclosed that the late Capt. Milburn G. Apt reached a speed of 2,260 miles an hour in the X2 rocket plane last year. That was well over 50 times the speed of the first plane the Air Force received from the Wright Brothers in 1909.

By-product Barred

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Tavern owners here have been told to get rid of their stocks of electrical appliances, coveralls, costume jewelry, and similar items. Deputy Police Inspector Rudolph Miller said the tavernkeepers were competing with department stores.

'Stop Smoking' Club Is Formed

PASADENA, Calif. (UP)—Two Pasadena men feel that "problem smokers" should be given the same type of help that Alcoholics Anonymous offers "problem drinkers."

Zeno Staudt and Ventor Williams Wednesday announced plans to start a "Stop Smoking Club of America." They said the "SS", a non-profit organization, will attempt "to help people try some of the little-known pleasures of not smoking."

The "SS" leaders defined a problem smoker as a person who wants to quit but can't under his own power.

Syria to Welcome Any Soviet Aid

DAMASCUS, Syria (UP)—Syrian Premier Sabri el Assali welcomed reports that Russia will grant Syria 400 million Syrian pounds in technical and industrial aid during the next 10 years.

Assali told newsmen Wednesday Syria welcomed any "uncommitted aid from the Soviet Union or any other power."

The report was carried by the Syrian Socialist newspaper Alraialaam in a dispatch on the current Syrian-Russian talks now in progress in Moscow.

Sandwiches Now Provide Variety in Appearance

The sandwich has indeed risen in the world. It is no longer just a snack or a pinch hitter for a scrambled meal. In its original simple form of a combination of bread with sliced meat, it retains its old popularity for picnics and lunch boxes, but for at-the-table lunches and suppers it has grown more and more elaborate. We may serve it hot or we may serve it cold.

Edith Barber

The bread may be toasted, if you like. For some purposes we prefer the open sandwich. Perhaps we will use sliced meat or cheese on one sliced, and heap vegetable salad on the other. Sometimes, we use a variation of French toast and may even go so far as to fry a cheese sandwich in deep fat. This is actually a variation of a Welsh rabbit.

We also like dainty tea sandwiches. For these, we often buy an unsliced loaf so that we may have our bread thin enough to suit our own taste. If we serve these open, we call them canapes. A flavored butter or cream cheese makes a good spread. If we like a sweet touch, we may use a chopped dried fruit such as dates or raisins, or use jam or jelly.

PICKLE AVOCADO HAM SANDWICH

1 medium avocado, peeled and mashed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 can (2¼-ounce) deviled ham
1-3 cup chopped sweet mixed pickles
Salt and pepper to taste
Buttered bread slices

Combine all ingredients except bread slices. Mix well and spread on buttered bread slices for sandwiches. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

WELSH RABBIT SANDWICHES

1½ cups (⅜-pound) grated American cheese
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
12 slices bread, buttered
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk

Mix cheese with seasonings and spread on 6 slices of bread. Cover with remaining slices of bread and press slices together tightly. Combine well-beaten egg with milk. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture. Fry sandwiches in deep, hot fat (375 degrees F.) 2 or 3 minutes, until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve at once. Yield: 6 servings. Note: The sandwiches may be sauteed until brown in butter or salad oil instead of frying in deep fat, if desired.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

SANDWICHES HAVE RISEN in culinary rank, but the simple hearty ones — like those of pickle, avocado and ham — are still an all-round favorite.

From Outer Space

BEDFORD, Pa. (UP)—"Butch" Koontz has a souvenir today from out of this world. He was gazing idly at the horizon Wednesday when a meteor landed 20 feet away from him.

Veal and Pork Must Be Cooked Thoroughly

Why are veal and pork chops seldom boiled? One meat is quite different from the other, but they seem to be grouped together or at least not grouped with beef and and lamb, and there is good reason for this.

Both veal and pork need a longer period of cooking than do beef and lamb. Veal has so little fat that one usually browns it in a well-greased skillet before adding a little liquid and covering it. Then allow it to simmer until completely tender.

On the other hand, pork has so much fat that as soon as it is browned pour off the drippings that have accumulated. Then cover it and allow it to simmer until perfectly certain it is thoroughly cooked. There should be no tinge of pink with either veal or pork when simmering has been completed.

There is one exception that applies to veal cutlet. For this, the steak is cut very thin. Sometimes it is pounded. After this, it can be sauteed in fat and will be well cooked by the time it has browned. The famous veal schnitzel is an example.

Often the question is asked as to whether meat should be salted before or after broiling. Actually, it seems to make little difference as far as eating is concerned, so you may take your choice. Some feel that meat is more thoroughly seasoned throughout if the salt is added at the beginning of the cooking.

VEAL SCHNITZEL

4 tablespoons fat
2 pounds veal steak (cut ½ inch thick)
Salt
Pepper
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
1 cup fine crumbs
¼ cup tomato juice
Lemon slices

Heat fat in heavy skillet. Cut veal into serving pieces and season with salt and pepper. Dip each piece in the egg mixed with water, then in crumbs. Brown meat on both sides in hot fat, about 10 minutes. Add tomato juice and cover. Cook slowly over low heat about 30 minutes. Sour cream may be used with the fat in the pan to make a sauce to serve over the meat. Garnish with lemon slices. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

VEAL CHOPS PAPRIKA

8 slices bacon
4 veal chops (1-inch thick)
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
Fine bread or cracker crumbs
1 cup sour (salad) cream
1 tablespoon paprika

Fry bacon in heavy skillet. Remove bacon and keep hot. Dip veal chops in slightly beaten egg mixed with the water, and then in fine crumbs. Brown meat on both sides in bacon fat. Add sour cream. Cover and cook slowly until meat is tender, about 1 hour. Add paprika and serve meat with bacon and sour cream sauce.

Graham Preaches On Apostle Paul

NEW YORK (UP) — Billy Graham preached Wednesday night on the Apostle Paul, one of Christianity's first evangelists, then stood with furrowed brow as 334 persons came forward to record "decisions for Christ."

The "inquirers" filed slowly down the brightly-lit aisles of Madison Square Garden and stood with bowed heads in front of Graham's rostrum.

It was a night typical of the 70 meetings Graham has held in the huge sports arena since he began his New York Crusade May 15. The 334 inquirers who went forward Wednesday night brought Graham's New York total to 40,701.

West Holds Own When It Comes to Armed Men

(This is the fourth in a series by the United Press military affairs writer. It sizes up the opposing forces on each side of the Iron Curtain.)

By CHARLES CORDDRY

PARIS (UP) — Militarily, Europe is two armed camps.

It is divided by electrified barbed wire which the Communists have strung along the "Iron Curtain."

On the Western or free side of the no-man's land, there appears to be little if any war fever or nervousness to disturb the continent's seemingly prosperous and happy exterior. That condition may be a reflection of the tempered confidence of the men charged with defending this vital part of the world.

There are weaknesses on the west side of the front, notably shortages of anti-aircraft missiles and supersonic jet fighters and a ground force with 18 instead of the desired 30 divisions.

But for those who total up numbers, this disparity appears not as great as commonly supposed.

Over Four-Million Men

Russia's total military manpower is estimated at 4,600,000. Satellite forces of questionable value raise that figure to 6 million.

The West's total, including the United States and Canada, probably is 5,500,000 to 5,600,000.

Russia's army, unless it has made some of the cuts it said it would, is estimated at 3,200,000.

More than 900,000 Russian army troops plus air force and navy men, estimates unavailable, are in the Russian Far East and Soviet interior. That indicates the Soviets have 2,300,000 army men plus air force and navy elements in western Russia, the satellites and southern Russia.

Satellite forces add about 1,400,000 to the total. But Western intelligence rates them a slender reed for Russia in the light of widespread unrest.

The West's total manpower in Europe is about 3,100,000, including 250,000 U.S. Army, 80,000 U.S. Air Force and 25,000 U.S. 6th Fleet. These figures do not include the 400,000 French troops now in Algeria.

The Russian army has 175 divisions. About 50 of them are in the Far East and the interior. The satellites have 85. The Soviet bloc could expand to 400 divisions in 30 days, according to military men here.

The Red Air force numbers 20,000 planes. Sbustantially all of them are jets, except the probably 2,000 copies of America's World War II B29 bomber. The satellites have 2,500 aircraft, half jets.

The Red navy's chief threat is submarines, variously estimated at 450 to 500. About half of them are long-range, ocean-going types, a considerable number are in the Black Sea.

From northern Norway to Turkey, the North Atlantic Treaty powers today are said to have 100 active and reserve divisions, 6,000 aircraft and 1,500 naval vessels. American forces include only those assigned to NATO.

The immediate Soviet threat, U.S. Army intelligence says, comprises 425,000 men in East Germany. They are organized into a 22-division tank and mechanized spearhead supported by MIG17 fighters and light jet bombers.

30 Division Minimum

This force could be more quickly reinforced from western Russia than could their opposite numbers — primarily American and British forces — from their home bases.

The minimum force NATO military planners want on the central front is 30 divisions. They say such a force will be available when all 12 German divisions are formed and three French divisions are returned from Africa. Today there are 18 divisions, not all at full strength.

NATO's expectation of reaching 30 divisions is based on hoped-for reconsideration of Britain's plans for a 26,000-man cut in its 77,000-man Army of the Rhine. It also hinges on no other cuts in NATO ground forces. Britain definitely intends to cut its Rhine army by at least 13,000 men.

The shield force today comprises the five-division U.S. 7th Army, most powerful ever fielded by the United States in peacetime; the four-division British contingent, two French divisions, and an estimated four divisons of the Benelux countries and Canada. The three new German divisions bring the total to 18.

The NATO land forces are supported by U.S. Army Corporal and Honest John missiles and 280 mm. cannon. All can deliver atomic explosives.

Steel Market Turns Corner For the Better

NEW YORK (UP)—The steel market appears finally to have turned the corner for the better, Iron Age magazine said today.

"Incoming orders are picking up," the weekly trade journal said. "This includes some automotive business, although Detroit has not yet jumped in with both feet."

Iron Age said the influx of new orders is not overwhelming, "but the trend is there."

The improved market outlook has steel users keeping a wary eye on their inventories, it said. The magazine said they don't want to be caught short should the market suddenly tighten.

"When automotive demand catches fire, it will tighten the market in sheets, principally. But other items that to date have been slow also will pick up," the publication said.

Iron Age pointed out that mills themselves are more optimistic, with one producer actually looking for operations of between 93 and 95 per cent in the third quarter and possibly full capacity in the fourth quarter.

British Report Gives Comfort to 45,000 Women

LONDON (UP)—For $4.20 British women could read some comforting words today—that 45,000 of them have figures like Marilyn Monroe's.

The report, put on sale by her Majesty's Stationery Office, was based on a survey to give British clothes manufacturers a better understanding of how big women are around vital areas.

The Joint Clothing Council which made the report based its figures on the measurements of 5,000 female forms and a lot of algebraic equations to make them apply to everybody.

It said the average "Miss Britain of 1957" measured 35-25-37½. This is slimmer than the Venus de Milo, about two inches bigger in the waist and hips than Miss Monroe and considerably more dumpy than the svelte Gino Lollobrigida.

Mathematics showed Miss Britain's measure was just fine generally and that she had nothing to be ashamed of.

There were exceptions.

Some 1,770,000 women in Britain have hips of 44 inches or bigger. About 2,180,000 have busts of 42 inches or over. And 1,700,000 measure at least 33 inches around the waist

But there always was that happy statistic—45,000 British women have the magic Monroe shape if not the walk

Asiatic Flu Report Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Public Health Service will tell the public today what it is doing about Asiatic flu and what it plans to do.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney plans to make a comprehensive report to the nation this afternoon on the Oriental flu situation. A spokesman said it will show the government has "not been caught napping."

Dr. Burney is expected to reveal how the service is gearing its resources "hopefully" in advance of the influenza season, the spokesman said.

An epidemic caused by a new virus dubbed Asiatic or Oriental flu has been sweeping the Far East for several months. There have been scattered outbreaks of the highly contagious illness in this country in the past couple of months. No deaths from the virus have been reported in this country.

Ike Is Called 'Lousy Liar' by West Virginian

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va) called President Eisenhower "a lousy liar" today.

He hurled the name at the President for denying responsibility for killing the $1,500,000,000 school construction bill.

Bailey, a chief Democratic sponsor of the measure, also said Eisenhower would be "playing politics in an election year" if he asks Congress next year to approve a school construction bill.

"He had his chance this year," Bailey told a United Press reporter.

Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday that despite House defeat of the school bill last week he will offer another school bill next year. Eisenhower also rejected charges by House Democrats that he did not work for the bill this year.

"When he says that the bill's defeat was not his fault," Bailey said, "he's just a lousy liar."

Farmers to Get Applications for Reimbursement

HARRISBURG, July 31. (UP)—State Treasurer Robert F. Kent said today applications for gasoline tax reimbursements will be mailed this month to more than 50,000 eligible farmers.

Kent said the applications would be mailed to farmers listed on last year's reimbursement records in order to expedite payment. He said 21,845 claims were filed during the last fiscal year, averaging $100 each for a total of $2,200,000.

He said approximately 30,000 additional farmers were believed eligible for reimbursements and must write to the state Finance and Revenue Board for applications to obtain 1956-57 refunds.

The 100 per cent refunds, made permanent by the 1957 Legislature, are for taxes on gasoline used solely in agricultural work. The state paid back six cents per gallon up to last June 1, when the levy dropped to five cents by legislative action.

Roger Touhy Release Expected in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—An attorney for Roger (The Terrible) Touhy said today Gov. William G. Stratton has paved the way for release of the Prohibition Era gangster within the next two years.

However, hopes were less bright for another notorious Stateville Penitentiary inmate, Nathan Leopold, a three-time loser in parole pleas.

Leopold, 52, today began writing another application to the Illinois Prison and Parole Board seeking a reopening of his parole application at the board's September meeting.

"I stand at the open graveside of my hopes," Leopold told an unusual prison news conference at Joliet Wednesday after Stratton had rejected his appeal for executive clemency.

"But I shall continue to apply for parole or mercy to my dying breath on my deathbed."

Stratton, on recommendation of the Pardon and Parole Board, Wednesday commuted to three years Touhy's 199-year sentence for a daring 1942 escape from Stateville.

Stratton's action left Touhy's 99-year sentence for kidnaping swindler John (Jake The Barber) Factor in 1934 intact.

Touhy's attorney, Robert B. Johnstone, contacted at Manitowish Waters, Wis., where he is vacationing, criticized the Pardon and Parole Board for not throwing out the prisoner's kidnap sentence at the same time.

The attorney said he would take steps to bring Touhy's case to court as quickly as possible, and added that if state courts refuse to void the conviction "maybe the U.S. Supreme Court might do something about it."

Below Normal Temperatures for Most of August

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau forecasts below normal temperatures and normal or above rainfall for most of the nation during August.

The 30 - day outlook calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals from the Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys eastward to the Atlantic seaboard

Below normal is also predicted for central and northern areas west of the Continental Divide.

But it will be hotter than usual in the central third of the nation with the greatest departures over the northern plains. Near normal is indicated elsewhere.

Over most areas east of the Appalachians normal or above normal precipitation is forecast. This should bring relief from the drought in this area, the bureau said.

More than usual rainfall also is anticipated over the southern plateau and coastal areas of the Pacific Northwest. Subnormal rainfall is indicated for the central and southern plains. Elsewhere rain will be about normal.

Duke of Windsor Praised for Ignoring Plot

LONDON (UP) — The British press lavished praise on the Duke of Windsor today for staying loyal to Britain despite a fantastic Nazi plot to make him a Quisling king.

The praise was noteworthy because London newspapers have largely ignored the duke since he gave up the throne.

Banner headlines of "The Big Lie," "The Most Fantastic Spy Story Of All," and "Crazy War Story" splashed across the front pages of virtually every major British newspaper acclaiming the abdicated king.

The headlines, and in some cases full-page stories in the newsprint short papers, told of the duke's "steadfast loyalty" against Adolf Hitler's wartime plot to win him over to the German side and install him as king of what Hitler hoped would be a conquered Britain.

The duke, in a statement released Wednesday night, said he had "little to add" to earlier statements on his own part and from the Foreign Office regarding his implication in a Nazi plot. But he said he treated Nazi suggestions "with the contempt they deserved."

Who Should Portray Jean Harlow on Film?

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Who should portray the late Jean Harlow in the movie about her tragic life?

Fans who cherish the memory of the first of the platinum blondes are suggesting everybody from Ann Sothern to Jayne Mansfield. But producer Jerry Wald, who's filming the story of the actress of New York and Hollywood is looking for an unknown actress — and she doesn't have to be blonde.

'We get hundreds of letters every week from around the country," said Wald, leafing through the mail on his desk. "They suggest Lucille Ball, Ann Sheridan, Janet Leigh, Carroll Baker, Marilyn Monroe, Terry Moore—

Wants "Internal Fire"

"I am looking for an actress, but a little known one. Then the audience won't anticipate what she'll do. And the unknown doesn't have to have blonde hair. What I'm looking for is internal fire. The make-up department will take care of the rest."

The movie, the way Wald outlines it, will be a revealing study of a sex siren of the screen — what kind of a person she really is, and the problems her sexy screen personality brings to her life.

"This script will touch on a lot of local nerves," he said. "These stars all run to the same pattern. Insecurity, fright. They think they'd better get the money fast because they don't think they'll last.

"Did you ever notice how they keep making up their faces? That shell of cosmetics covers up their fright.

"Their worst problem is that men think they're as sexy off screen as on. Men marry them for what they are in the movies—not as human women with ordinary problems. That's why their marriages don't last.

"Jean Harlow married Paul Bern because she thought he was one man who didn't expect her to be as she was in 'Hell's Angels.'"

Bern committed suicide after their marriage, leaving a note saying "last night was a farce." Jean herself died of uremic poisoning when she was in the middle of filming "Saratoga" with Clark Gable. In preparing the movie, Wald has talked to the persons in Harlow's life — Gable, Bill Powell and her mother, who runs a shop in Palm Springs.

"Gable told me everyone on the set felt when they took Jean away to the hospital they would never see her again," said Wald. "The last scene in my picture will be when the director of 'Saratoga' says 'kill the arcs' and the lights on the set go out, one by one."

Jimmy Stewart On GE Theatre Sunday Night

Jimmy Stewart, Indiana native whose career has carried him to the topmost places of success in the movies and now a luminary in the television realm, stars in "The Town With A Past" on General Electric Threatre Sunday, from 9 to 9:30 p. m., EDT, over the CBS-TV network.

Jimmy was graduated from high school and the state teachers' college in his home community of Indiana, where his father operated a large hardware business for many years. Jimmy chose the role of an actor rather than follow in his father's footsteps as a successful businessman.

The story of "The Town With A Past" casts Stewart as a saddle tramp of the Old West who befriends an eccentric old lady and brings about the rebirth of a city.

Silver Annie (Beulah Bondi) is the fading symbol of a bygone era who protects her once fabulous silver mine against all intruders including a railroad whose right-of-way could save Virtue City from becoming a ghost town. Stewart, a courageous and curious stranger, is hired by the townsfolk to persuade the od lady to abandon her dreams of another silver strike and sell the worked out mine to the railroad. When Annie is betrayed, brought into court and threatened with an insanity ruling Stewart fights for time and inadvertenty guides fate.

Ronald Reagan acts as host and on-air supervisor for The General Electric Theatre.

Some Health Rules For the Polio Season

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

The Salk anti-polio vaccine has prove to be worthwhile in Chicago. There is every indication that it is a safe and effective protection against the dreaded crippler, infantile paralysis.

But let's not relax entirely. There are countless children who have not been given its protection.

During the normally heavy polio months of August and September, it is the duty of all parents to take certain precautions to protect their youngsters and to be alert for specific symptoms.

For one thing, keep your youngsters out of strange crowds as much as possible. It's probably all right for them to play with the youngsters they see every day.

Don't let your children become overly tired or chilled. It's a good idea for you adults to avoid fatigue and chills, too.

Don't use another's soiled towels, dishes or tableware.

Make sure you and your children wash their hands carefully before eating and after going to the bathroom.

Follow your doctor's advice about any mouth and throat operations during the hot summer months.

Be on the lookout for these symptoms headache, fever, upset stomach, sore throat, stiff back or neck. If you notice them, or if your children complain of them, notify your physician immediately.

If you need help for a polio patient, have your doctor contact the local agency of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

We had a sizable upsurge of polio in Chicago last summer. We believe the Salk vaccine helped us stem the tide and we are well on the way to licking the problem. If your children have not yet been inoculated with the vaccine I strongly urge you to see your doctor about it.
